THE PERFECTION OF PREPARED COCOA. MARAVILLA COCOA. Sole proprietors, TAYLOR BROTHERS, London.
The Cocoa (or Cacao) of Maravilla is the true Theobroma of Linnæus. Cocoa is indigenous to South America, of which Maravilla is a favoured portion. Taylor, Brothers, having secured the exclusive supply of this unrivalled cocoa, have, by the skilful application of their soluble principle and elaborate machinery, produced what is so undeniably the perfection of prepared cocoa, that it has not only secured the preference of homœopaths and cocoa-drinkers generally, but many, who had hitherto not found any preparation to suit them, have, after one trial, adopted the Maravilla Cocoa as their constant beverage for breakfast, luncheon, &c.
"A SUCCESS UNPRECEDENTED."
See following Extract from the Globe of May 14, 1868.
"Various importers and manufacturers have attempted to attain a reputation for their prepared Cocoas, but we doubt whether any thorough success had been achieved until Messrs. Taylor, Brothers discovered the extraordinary qualities of 'Maravilla' Cocoa. Adapting their perfect system of preparation to this finest of all species of the Theobroma, they have produced an article which supersedes every other cocoa in the market. Entire solubility, a delicate aroma, and a rare concentration of the purest elements of nutrition, distinguish the Maravilla Cocoa above all others. For Homœopaths and invalids we could not recommend a more agreeable or valuable beverage."
Sold in packets only by all Grocers, of whom also may be had Taylor, Brothers' original Homœopathic Cocoa and Soluble Chocolate. Steam Mills, Brick-lane, London.

LEA AND PERRINS' Celebrated WORCESTERSHIRE SAUCE, Declared by connoisseurs to be the only GOOD SAUCE.
CAUTION AGAINST FRAUD.
The success of this most delicious and unrivalled Condiment having caused certain dealers to apply the name of "Worcestershire Sauce" to their own inferior compounds, the public is hereby informed that the only way to secure the genuine is to ASK FOR LEA and PERRINS' SAUCE, and to see that their names are upon the wrapper, labels, stopper, and bottle.
Some of the foreign markets having been supplied with a spurious Worcestershire Sauce, upon the wrapper and labels of which the names of Lea and Perrins have been forged, L. and P. give notice that they have furnished their correspondents with power of attorney to take instant proceedings against Manufacturers and Vendors of such, or any other imitations by which their right may be infringed.
Ask for LEA and PERRINS' Sauce, and see name on wrapper, label, bottle, and stopper.

On the summons paper were seven cases, of which one was dismissed, and four were postponed. Cousens v. Defendant not appearing the case was heard exparte, and an order was made for the delivery of the property. In Ryan v. Williams, a proceeding under the Tenants' Act to recover possession of premises situated in Brougham-place, the defendant consented to an order or warrent to lie in the office seven days. Nearly the whole of the day was occupied in a case, Rose v. Rose, under the Deserted Wives' Act, but which was not concluded.

WATER POLICE COURT.
MONDAY.

Nine drunkards were severally punished.

Robert Nicholson was sentenced to pay a fine of 10s., in default three days' imprisonment, for indecently exposing his person in Charlotte place.

Francis Marnck was brought before the Court, charged with being drunk and disorderly on Church-hill, for which offence he was mulcted in the sum of 10s.; and for wilfully damaging a coat, to the amount of 10s., the property of William Pringle, he was ordered to pay that sum, with the alternative of six days in gaol.

James Siddle was locked up for riotous behaviour in George-street, and was ordered to pay a penalty of 20s., in default to be sent to gaol for seven days.

Ralph Proctor and Frederick Wilson appeared on summons, charged with using obscene language, and were sentenced to pay a fine of 10s., and 8s. costs of court each, in default three days' incarceration.

Joseph Williams was brought before the court in custody charged with exhibiting indecent cards to a female in the Domain, on Saturday night between 10 and 11 o'clock, for which offence he was sent to gaol for two days. The female in question was also charged with indecent behaviour, and was discharged.

James Creaton, 11, was charged with being under the age of 16 years, habitually wandering about the streets in no lawful occupation. Prisoner, whose mother deposed that she had no control over him, was ordered to be sent on board the training ship Vernon.

John Miller was sent to gaol for one month for stealing a pair of boots, valued at 10s. 6d., the property of Alexander Fogg; and for stealing a gold albert and sundry articles of wearing apparel, the property of Thomas Moore, he was committed for trial at the next Court of Quarter Sessions. The same prisoner was also committed to take his trial at the same Court for stealing a watch, valued at £4, the property of Neil Hanson.

Lucy Holmes v. Ann Casey was a case for the detention of property, in which their Worships made an order for the restitution of the property on payment of 20s. due by complainant to defendant.

Emile Busine was brought up on remand on a charge of bigamy. Elizabeth O'Neill deposed: On the 22nd July last I was married to the prisoner by the Rev. Dr. Lang, at his residence in Jamison-street; I found in prisoner's box last Saturday, after he had been arrested for threatening to take my life, the marriage lines produced, which bear his signature, and by which it appears that he was married to Sarah Ann Poland on the 26th April, 1859, at Greymouth; I believe she is alive still; the letter produced, I believe, is from her; the envelope bears the New Zealand post-mark, August 25, 1869; prisoner told me that he lived with another woman, but was not married to her; I am only 19 years of age, but I represented that I was 21 when I was married. Susannah Matthews deposed: I am the wife of John Matthews, of the Sydney Observatory; I have known prisoner since last May twelve-months, when he was engaged to go as campkeeper at Lake George, and he introduced the woman whose likeness is shown to me as his wife, and the letter produced by the last witness is partly in her handwriting; they lived together as man and wife; prisoner went away to Lake George and left her in Sydney, and about a month afterwards she returned to New Zealand; they told me they had lived in South Africa; after she went to New Zealand I received two or three letters from her for prisoner, who called for them; I did not hear of his marriage with last witness until last Sunday, when she called at my house; prisoner's first wife left Sydney for New Zealand in the barque Fanny Fisher, taking with her her two children, a boy aged seven, and a girl aged five years. Emily Angles deposed: I am the wife of Gustave Angles, landlord of the Shamrock Hotel; prisoner and his wife stopped at our house about fourteen months ago; this is her likeness, and I think her Christian name was Sarah. Alice Lee, servant at Dr. Lang's house, deposed to having witnessed a marriage by Dr. Lang between the prisoner and Elizabeth O'Neill. Elizabeth O'Neill, re-sworn, states: I produce a certificate of prisoner's discharge from the German Legion, signed by Colonel Murray, whose name appears in the duplicate original register of prisoner's marriage with Sarah Ann Poland, and which marriage certificate is attested to by the chaplain whose name is signed to the performance of the ceremony. Susannah Matthews, re-sworn, states, on giving prisoner one of the letters from New Zealand, he took the likeness out of the envelope and showed her the likeness produced, saying, "That is my wife's likeness; what do you think of it?" Prisoner, in defence, stated: I am not married to Sarah Ann Poland, and she deserted me eighteen months ago; my first wife is dead. Prisoner was committed to take his trial at the next sitting of the Criminal Court, to be held on the 15th November.

Charles Crawford, 10, was ordered to be locked up from half-past 3 o'clock until 5, for stealing flowers from the Union Club gardens.

SYDNEY MUNICIPAL COUNCIL.

THE usual fortnightly meeting of the City Council was held at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon

THE GOLD FIELDS.

THE JUNEE REEFS.—A few days since (says the Wagga Wagga Express) a splendid cake of gold, weighing 150 oz., from the claim of Messrs. Brown and Bergin, of Junee, was brought into this town, and safely deposited in the bank of New South Wales. On Friday afternoon another cake of 80 oz., from the same claim was brought in, and like its predecessor, also lodged in the Bank of New South Wales.

COROWA.—The correspondent of the Albury Banner writes:—"I am afraid quartz-reefing is not going to be of much assistance to us in our struggle for advancement. The trial crushing from the reef lately at work did not turn out very satisfactorily, something under two pennyweights.

THE BELL'S CREEK QUARTZ REEFS.—The rush to the reefs at Bell's Creek within the past seven or eight days (says the Braidwood Dispatch) has been something wonderful, and it would seem by the number of claims which are taken up there, which is, we are assured, not less than from one hundred and fifty to two hundred, that the reefs are more clearly defined and that there is a greater extent of them than in any other part of the district. The ground upon which the reefs have been taken up is situated at the head of the creek, near where Wilson's old public-house stood in the palmy alluvial days. The reefs run across the small creeks at the head of Bell's Creek on the Seymour Estate, and are of various widths up to two and three feet. The stone is of a very solid character, and some of it which has been crushed in a mortar has given splendid prospects. We hear of one party having washed out over four pennyweights from 10 lbs. of stone. The reefs were first discovered cropping out of the washed-away soil in the creeks, but in the hills they are found under the clay some six feet from the surface, running in regular straight lines up the hills from the creeks. A number of the parties at work are tunnelling from the hill sides. There are between five and six hundred at work on them we hear, and from all accounts they are likely to rival both the Little River and Major's Creek reefs. It would appear that payable reefs abound in all parts of the district in which the alluvial deposits have been any way good, and if the richness of the one is to be taken as any criterion of the richness of the other, Bell's Creek will certainly be unsurpassed by any other reef-bearing locality, as it was here that the richest washing stuff was found on the first discovery of gold in the district.

ARALUEN.—Writing on Thursday last, the correspondent of the Braidwood Dispatch observes:—"The continually repeated paragraph that there is nothing new or worth recording in mining operations becomes irksome, but such is the quiet way in which gold mining is carried on in the Valley that unless a flood visits us there is no other way of getting out of it, if a weekly report is adhered to. The same routine going on, about the same quantity of gold forwarded every escort, the same amount of grumbling, and yet every one making a comfortable living, in fact there is so much similarity and so much sameness week after week that the old phrase Ab uno disce omnes may be very aptly quoted."

MAJOR'S CREEK.—The Braidwood Dispatch of Saturday states:—"Spring Creek, the Red Hill, the Young Australian, and Wilson's lead are still the great attractions, and, in addition to these, the quartz reef close to Cleaver's fence is found to be very good, and practically inexhaustible. There is a great future in store for the district. The Oddfellow's Prospecting Company are doing a vast amount of heavy work and from the nature of their ground it will be some months before they are down, as the rock is very hard and seamy. Mr. Atkinson's crusher will be here next week, and this will shortly be followed by two others, one of which is bargained for, so that we shall soon know what is the value of the stone."

KIANDRA.—The correspondent of the Monaro Mercury says:—Since my last communication we have had a tremendous downpour of rain, which has cleared off almost every vestige of snow. The thunderstorms have played mischief with the telegraph lines; at the present moment both lines are unworkable. The electric fluid entered the office and caused some little damage, however, Mr. Geilnan, our telegraph master, had taken every precaution, otherwise something serious might have happened. On the Rocky Plains, near here, seven posts in succession were shattered, some very large splinters from off the posts being carried a long distance. It has not been ascertained yet as to where the injury has been sustained on the Tumut line, but it is beyond Yarrongo-Billy, as Mr. Geilnan has already inspected his end of the line. I understand two or three claims on the reef at Broken Cart Creek are raising stone, and purpose sending some twenty tons here for crushing. Our old friend, John Carmichael, is now on a visit to that place. There is nothing new to relate in mining matters here. Everybody is pegging, and making the most of the water, knowing from the disappearance of the snow that it will not last long.

NATIVE ADDRESS TO THE GOVERNOR OF NEW ZEALAND.

"To Sir George Ferguson Bowen, Governor of New Zealand, &c.

"O Father! Salutations! We, your children, desire to welcome you on this your second visit to our settlement, Wanganui. On your first arrival here you found this place in great trouble and confusion, and we now desire to congratulate you because the evil days have passed, and light has again shone upon this community.

"O Parent! The great evils that befel our vicinity in the past have been abolished and removed by the just and clear measures framed and carried out by yourself and your Government. Those dark days, the days of Titoko Waru, have vanished.

"O Father, the Governor! We salute you, together with Mr. Fox, Dr. Featherston, Mr. M'Lean, and the other members of your Executive! Do you afford us, your children, protection in the future!

"Great is our satisfaction at this time on account of our friends, Dr. Featherston, Mr. Fox, and Mr. M'Lean, having become your advisers in conducting the administration of this colony! These gentlemen are our own 'Panela,' whose names are familiar to us, and whose good deeds have been made apparent in this island in days gone by. O Friend, welcome! welcome! coming to see us as you do on this occasion, clothed with authority and chieftain dignity. Come and give importance to this place. Come frequently, for this is Wanganui, the stronghold of the island, and from whence your proceedings will take effect upon the Maori race.

"O Father, the Governor, the representative of our good and great Queen, we salute you! our preserver, and in whom our trust and confidence is placed!

"We have a request to make to you and Mr. Fox; it is this: Let the Governor have a house built for him to reside in during some of the months of every year at Wanganui as at Auckland! This would give us great delight, as we would then have our chief protector taking up his abode amongst us! O preserver! we salute you and Lady Bowen and your children! and may Almighty God afford you His grace and protection in the days to come!

"From your loving children,
"Mete Kingi, M.H.R.
"Major Kemp, Mawae.
"Kawana Pukatutu, Hamiana, Hakariah, Aperaniko, Motiu, Toma, Huni and Aperahama, and all the Wanganui [illegible]
"Wanganui, September 22."

His Excellency thanked them for the address, and said he was happy to be able to congratulate them on the improved state of affairs in Wanganui since his last visit. This improvement, he might observe, was in some measure brought about by the action taken by Kemp and other Wanganui natives in assisting to drive back Titoko Waru from the Waitotara. He hoped that the friendly relations which had hitherto existed between the loyal Wanganui natives and European settlers would ever continue, and assured them that it was the earnest desire of her gracious Majesty the Queen that her native and European subjects should live under her government as one happy and loyal people.

ASSIZE DINNER AT WAGGA WAGGA.

(From the Advertiser, October 9.)

ON Thursday evening, his Honor the Chief Justice, the members of the Bar on circuit, and the officers and gentlemen connected with the Court, were entertained at a public dinner in the Assembly-room of the Australian Hotel. The chair was taken by Mr. F. A. Tompson, and the vice-chair by Mr. Leitch. About forty-eight gentlemen sat down to dinner. On the right of the chairman sat Sir Alfred Stephen.

After the usual loyal toasts had been proposed by the chairman, and warmly responded to, the chairman, amid much cheering, rose to propose,—"Sir Alfred Stephen, Chief Justice of the colony." He said, we have met this evening for the very pleasing purpose of doing honour to one, whom every section of the community throughout the colony delights publicly to honour whenever the opportunity of doing so is afforded them. The name of Sir Alfred Stephen has become a household word with the people of New South Wales, and so intimately is it interwoven with the history of the colony as to have become inseparable from it. (Loud cheers.) Early placed in a position of high public responsibility, he has continued through a long and almost unprecedented period, to perform the sacred functions of his office faithfully, to his own great honour and the well-being of the society within which he moves as one of its brightest representatives. He has ever been the friend of all great movements having for their object the moral, social, and intellectual advancement of the country (great cheering); and his name is to be found foremost in all our great humanising institutions and charities. He has earned for himself the character of an upright Judge and a good citizen. We did not, gentlemen, invite his Honor here to eulogise him, but to evince and testify our high regard and reverence for his public and private character, and to assure him of our earnest and sincere desire for his future health and happiness and the health and happiness of all those dear to him.

The toast was drunk amid the most vociferous demonstrations of applause.

Sir Alfred Stephen rose amidst general cheering to reply. He said he felt very deeply the obligation imposed upon him by the evident sincerity of the manner in which the last toast had been given and responded to, and he felt a difficulty in replying. He was sure, if he commenced by adopting the hackneyed phrase of "unused as I am to public speaking," he would receive no credit for such a plea, but he begged to assure his friends that, although he could speak very well in his own Court and on judicial matters, for which his profession fitted him, he yet felt the greatest difficulty in acquitting himself creditably when he came to speak amongst his friends, as on the present occasion, and on a subject which touched him nearly. On this occasion he would, however, make a very good speech, for it would be a very short one. He felt very grateful to his friend, the chairman, for the manner in which his health had been proposed, and to his other friends for the way in which they had responded to it, and he was not going to do himself or them the injustice of believing them insincere or himself wholly undeserving of the high opinion they had expressed for him. He assured them, that although the office of Judge necessarily imposed a certain amount of restraint and sternness of manner in the performance of a duty, it did him good, and was grateful to his heart and feelings, to be able to cast this off, and mingle with the people, sharing in the pleasure of sociality, or helping, if need me, to relieve and lighten their cares and troubles. (Cheers.) No man breathing had a greater love of sociality than himself, and he trusted earnestly that he would be able to come amongst his friends of Wagga Wagga oftener than he had done. (Great cheering.) He should certainly make a point of endeavouring to be with them again at the next Assizes in April. (Great cheers.) He thanked them heartily and most sincerely for the kindness they had evinced. Sir Alfred, in concluding his speech, referred to the name of our town, and said that it was one of the least euphonious names that he had ever heard. He dwelt very humorously on this for some time amid the laughter of all present. He had discovered the meaning of the word Wagga to be a crow, and Wagga Wagga an assemblage of crows, and thought there was nothing in the character of the crow that would justify the fine people of this highly rising and important place in adopting a name which was so significant of what was sinister and evil, the crow being both a sinister and villainous bird. He advocated a change of name, and suggested that of Belmore, in honour of our excellent Governor, to whom, and to Lady Belmore, he paid a high and delicate compliment. Sir Alfred resumed his seat amidst vociferous cheering.

The toasts from the chair being concluded, the vice-chairman gave "Our Guests," which was enthusiastically received, and admirably responded to by Mr. W. C. Windeyer and A. M. Stephen, in speeches which elicited warm applause.

Mr. Windeyer spoke in admiration of the district, and is evidently deeply impressed by the great necessity for uniting Wagga Wagga with Sydney by railroad. This expression of opinion was received with much cheering and applause.

The Vice-chairman gave "Lady Belmore and the Ladies of the colony."

The Chief Justice then proposed the health of the chairman, Mr. Tompson. The toast was warmly received, and suitably responded to by Mr. Tompson, and the party broke up.

His Honor's reference to the illness of Mr. Forsyth, and his kind wishes for his recovery, produced the exhibition of much kind and sympathetic feeling.

RIDDLE.—Has anyone ever found an answer to this riddle? or is it one of those which has been found so hard to crack, that all have voted it a wooden nutmeg? I have heard it ascribed to Mrs. Barbauld—not a very likely person to perpetrate a sell:—

In jerkin short and nut-brown coat I live;
Pleasure to all, and pain to none I give.
Quivers I have, and pointed arrows too;
Gold is my [illegible], and iron is my bow.
Nothing I read, yet many things I write;
I never go to war, yet ever fight;
Nothing I eat, yet am I always full;
Poison from herbs and sweets from flowers I cull.
A spotted back I have, an earthen scrip;
Black is my face, and blubber is my lip.
No tears I shed, and yet I always weep;
Sleeping I wake, and waking do I sleep.

MARCH WINDS AND APRIL SHOWERS.—Repentance and pardon are like to the three vernal months of the year—March, April, and May. Sin comes in like March—blustering, stormy, and full of bold violence. Repentance succeeds like April—showering, weeping, and full of tears. Pardon follows like May—springing, singing, full of joys and flowers. If our hands have been full of March, with the tempests of unrighteousness, our eyes must be full of April, with the sorrow of repentance; and then our hearts shall be full of May, in the true joy of forgiveness.—Thomas Adams.

THE CHURCH TEMPORALITIES ACT.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—Your correspondent in this morning's Herald regards the assumption of the title, "The United Church of England and Ireland in New South Wales," by the Anglican communion, in the same light as the adoption of "The Wesleyan," "The Presbyterian," or "The Roman Catholic Church" by those respective bodies. To me it appears that those respective bodies assume nothing beyond what they really are; but, surely, no one will pretend to say that the Anglican communion is "The United Church of England and Ireland in New South Wales." No. In the words of the Bishop of Oxford—"The Church of England is confined to the shores of England;" and all the high legal authorities in England acknowledge this, and act upon it—Lord Romilly's judgment in the Colenso case notwithstanding.

But your correspondent acknowledges that "the other reasons which he ('Aleph') gives for the repeal of the Church Act may be of some weight." He expresses his belief that "the Act is now unsuitable." He does not justify the Legislature in setting up an Ecclesiastical Court here and investing the Bishop with sole jurisdiction in it; constituting him (the Bishop) the plaintiff, witness, counsel, and judge. But all this is done by "The Church Temporalities Act" in New South Wales.

There is another reason mentioned by your correspondent, but overlooked at the time by me, which he regards as strong enough in itself to demand a modification of the Act, if not its entire repeal. "For instance (he states) it provides that all the funds derived from pew-rents shall be devoted to material improvements and minor expenses, &c., leaving no provision for the stipend of the clergyman." In this view, also, I cordially acquiesce. But why retain the Act at all? It is acknowledged to be unsuitable; it is unnecessary now that the Anglican Church has its own Synod; and, above all, it is offensive to all other bodies of religionists. To the Parliament we now look for redress in this matter.

Yours, &c.,
ALEPH.

October 11.

To the Editor of the Herald.

SIR,—I see by the speeches of honorable members that reference is made to the discharge of the Police Magistrate of Tumut, Mr. Vyner. Will you accord a very old resident space in your valuable columns to say a few words on this subject.

It was remarked as a hardship in Mr. Vyner's case that he had a family of ten children. Let me say in addition:

1st. That for a period of (I think) nearly twenty years, Mr. Vyner did duty as an unpaid magistrate on the Tumut Bench, during which time he was most unremitting in his attention, and as a matter of course the time allotted to the public interest was a private loss to him.

2nd. That the farm on which the Honorable the Premier states he resided during these by-gone years was at one time a portion of a small run called Mungilidjenula, and not a great while after Mr. Vyner became its owner, the run was cut up in a manner which led to its absorption as the site of a village, a village reserve, and a common, &c.

That this action was warranted to meet the wants of the increasing population does not render the individual hardship any the less.

A man may subsist upon a farm surrounded by a squattage, but take away the squattage and you take away his subsistence.

Under any circumstances it must be a severe trial to those holding appointments, to find themselves suddenly dispensed with; but I cannot conceive anything that would be more galling to my own feelings than to be subjected to the same treatment that Mr. Vyner has had to endure.

He came amongst us, I remember, a youth "sighing like a son," and remains amongst us "coughing like a grandfather;" and now that he is old and silver-haired, he finds himself stript of his well-deserved, well-earned recent appointment—earned by twenty years' faithful, impartial, and gratuitous public services; while, casting a dark shadow over his discharge, stands out the sombre fact of the loss of his run to make room for settlement.

Mr. Bay, I observe, is doubtful if the system of retrenchment by the discharge of Police Magistrates will be found beneficial. The hon. gentleman thinks (and his thoughts are oracles) that it will be found necessary to appoint others in their places before long. Let us hope to see our former P. M. reinstated.

There are those to whom localities become dear, who learn to love the house they built, the garden they planned, the trees they planted, and even the roses that entwine the porch. Indeed a home long dwelt in seems to the eye of its old occupant, to have not only its own earthly sweet surroundings, but almost its own sky.

I firmly believe there is not a man in the district whose heart is in the right place, but would view Mr. Vyner's departure from amongst us with regret; and those who know him best would deplore it most. They might not be numerous, but if not, like the audience desired by Milton, they would be found to be "fit though few."

The Premier said Mr. Vyner's appointment was "a notorious job." If he meant by notorious that a vast, influential, and respectable portion of the community desired to see the appointment, the hon. Premier is correct. If he meant that by the gratuitous devotion of his time to the public service for many years, Mr. Vyner was notoriously fitted for the appointment, he is right. If he meant by the loss of his run in the manner stated, and his long service for nothing, that Mr. Vyner might have considered himself notoriously entitled to some consideration at the hands of the district and the Government, the hon. Premier is right again. But if he meant by notorious, that there was anything objectionable in the antecedents of Mr. Vyner, or the way in which the appointment took place, the Premier is entirely wrong.

Something has been said about good deeds being better than coronets, but as it is an offence to quote incorrectly, I will content myself by saying, in honest prose, "a noble deed gives every day its charm," and that the reappointment of Mr. Vyner would be the noblest plume in the Premier's political pinion. It would be linking one virtue, at any rate, with the harsh error of that gentleman's dismissal. It would be restoring comfort to the innocent inmates of a recently happy home, suddenly rendered discomfited.

I am, Sir, yours, &c.,
FIAT JUSTITIA.

THE BIRMINGHAM ORPHANAGE.

THE following interesting article appears in the Birmingham Daily Gazette of August 6th:—

Some eighteen months have elapsed since we gave our readers a full description of those noble works of philanthropy, Mr. Mason's Almshouses and Orphanage, at Erdington. Since that article first drew public attention to the untiring and zealous devotion of one of the most munificent of Birmingham worthies to his labours of charity, the hope of his life has been realised. The great work to which he has devoted a large portion of the wealth realised by a long and successful mercantile career has been completed, and on Tuesday last the Birmingham Town Council received a communication from Mr. Mason which placed his beneficent institution under the responsible management of the Corporation. After the death of the founder—an event we trust still many years distant—the Council will elect seven of the fourteen trustees, under whose control and government the Orphanage will be placed. The restriction imposed by Mr. Mason are very few indeed. The trustees nominated by the Town Council may either be selected from members of that body, or from gentlemen outside the Council, as in the case of the Free Libraries Committee; and whenever any vacancy occurs in the official trustees the Town Council will have to appoint the succeeding trustee. During Mr. Mason's life the charity will be administered by Mr. Mason and the seven trustees, to whom on Saturday last this noble benefaction was quietly and unostentatiously transferred. Of course any vacancy occurring in this body will be, until those to be appointed by the Council are required, selected by Mr. Mason and the trustees whom he has named; afterwards the whole body of trustees will have the power of filling up any vacancy in the number of private trustees. But as the Council will in all such cases have the advantage of seven votes to six, the future management of the charity may be said to have been virtually placed in the power of the Corporation—a body responsible to the public for the faithful discharge of their duties, and liable to be removed if they discharge their duties negligently or without due regard to the interests of those to whose welfare this noble institution has been consecrated. The only restriction placed by the founder on the elections of the private trustees is that they shall be Protestant laymen, and reside within ten miles of the Orphanage. Besides these careful arrangements for the future management of his charity, Mr. Mason has provided a due check over the finances, the rock upon which so many charitable endowments have been wrecked. The deed provides that the accounts shall be audited by a public accountant once a year, and a copy of his statement shall be sent to the Town Clerk of the borough for the time being. "By these means," writes Mr. Mason, "I trust that my charity may always have the advantage of a small executive body elected by, and therefore commanding the respect of, their fellow-townsmen, and preserved from all improper influences by being placed under the control of the public opinion of the town." In this trust every one will participate, and every one will at once admit that Mr. Mason himself has taken every precaution by which it may be realised.

We may now briefly state the nature of the gift. At a cost, including building and endowment, of something like £300,000, a private citizen of Birmingham has provided an orphanage and almshouses for the benefit of the parentless and the poor. In providing this home for the homeless, in thus endeavouring to supply the place of parents to those upon whom has fallen the greatest calamity that can befall the young, the founder has proceeded with the most thoughtful care—we may add with a truly fatherly affection. The interests of the orphans who at present are participators of his beneficence, and those who shall hereafter participate, could not have been more diligently consulted had they been the actual offspring of the founder, who seems anxious to make himself responsible for their comfort, happiness, and future prosperity. The best provisions have been made for securing the health of the inmates; ample space is provided for each child, and a separate bed for each. There is a well-arranged bath-room, and the greatest care is displayed for the development of healthy and vigorous men and women from the children of the Orphanage. Sports and games of various kinds suitable to the ages of the inmates are provided, and gymnastic exercises wisely form an important part in the kindly discipline of the place. For the younger children toys in abundance afford constant amusement, while the sense of the beautiful is cultivated by the means of flowers, music, and pictures. The education provided is useful, practical, liberal, religious, but unsectarian, Mr. Mason's object being to make God-fearing, man-loving men and women of his orphans. Both boys and girls will be taught reading, writing, spelling, English grammar, arithmetic, geography, and history, and other subjects of general and useful knowledge. It is a fundamental rule that only the English language and grammar shall be taught in the Orphanage. All the children will be brought up in habits of industry. The girls are to be taught sewing, baking, cooking, washing, mangling, and all ordinary household and domestic duties, and other useful knowledge. The education of the boys is to have a similar practical and judicious end in view. The Orphanage is in itself a noble building, intended to hold three hundred children, although it is large enough to accommodate five hundred. All the rooms are large, commodious, and airy. All the appliances of modern science are brought to bear for carrying on the necessary work of such a place; and the daily life of its inmates is a happy round of useful activity and happy leisure. The Orphanage and its surrounding grounds and gardens are in themselves objects of great beauty, but still more beautiful is the purpose to which they are devoted.

We need add only a very few words to this record of Mr. Mason's noble gift. Such a work is its own best eulogy. Words are feeble in comparison with such a deed. The mere statement that one man has expended some £300,000 in building, and founding an orphanage and almshouses, is sufficient to gain the "golden opinions of all sorts of people," and the reverential admiration of all who can appreciate so noble an act. All the children in the Orphanage will be "lodged, clothed, fed, maintained, educated, and brought up gratuitously at the exclusive cost of the Orphanage income." For such a deed the Town Council have rightly instructed the General Purposes Committee to "consider and report upon the mode in which the Council, on behalf of the borough, can best testify their high appreciation of Mr. Mason's noble charity." We trust that the town will express its gratitude in a manner befitting such a munificent and princely work. The best return, however, will be in the blessings of the thousands of orphan children for whom the orphanage will open its loving and hospitable doors; and in the blessings of the poor, for whose old age the almshouses will provide a pleasant home for the remaining years of their lives. In designing and completing these noble works, Mr. Mason has assuredly

Built for himself an everlasting name.

TRINITY COLLEGE, DUBLIN.

THE following communication appears in the London Times:

SIR,—As there are few Catholics who have seen more of Trinity College, or who owe more to Trinity College than I do, I think it right to offer my testimony in support of the view advocated in The Times of to-day.

I belong to a family of what might be termed in Ireland "strict Catholics." I believe it was a question when I was leaving school what should be done with me; but, fortunately for me, it was decided that I should be sent to Trinity College.

I spent there five of the happiest and best employed years of my life. It would be superfluous to say that I was treated with perfect fairness and courtesy by everyone I met there. It has never been insinuated that a Catholic in Trinity College has anything to complain of on this score either from his fellow-students or from those in authority over him. But I must in justice go further, and say that among my fellow-students I found true and valued friends, while from all the Fellows and Professors with whom I came in contact I met with an amount of attention, sympathy, and encouragement in my work far exceeding what an individual student in so large an establishment could expect. In particular, I never shall forget the warm congratulations I received from all around me, from the highest to the lowest, on one occasion when I had obtained a distinction of a kind then new for Catholics.

Looking back now from the point to which the advance of Liberal opinions has brought us, we think it a cruel injustice that we were debarred from competing for Fellowships; but we should not blame Trinity College for what was really part and parcel of the whole system of Irish policy of those days. It would have been too much to expect Trinity College, holding the position it did towards the Irish Church and the dominant party in Ireland at that time, to take the initiative in reforms such as are now proposed. And to say the truth, Sir, though I should have preferred a Fellowship in Trinity College to almost any other position on earth, the impossibility of getting one never troubled me much, as under the state of things that then prevailed in Ireland (observe, not in Trinity College, but in Ireland generally) I no more thought of being a Fellow of Trinity College than I thought of being Archbishop of Canterbury.

As regards the apprehension entertained by most of our clergy that the religious beliefs or sentiments of a Catholic student may become affected in an indirect or imperceptible way by living, as they put it, in a "Protestant atmosphere," I consider it, as regards Trinity College, utterly without foundation. Mixed education may be open to this objection in the case of boys under 16 years of age; but I have sufficient confidence in the faith of a Catholic properly trained as such up to 16 years of age to believe that he is safe from all influences of this kind. Anything in the way of direct influence is, of course, out of the question. Pauper children may be bribed or bullied or shamed into renouncing their religion by a parish beadle; but it is very different with young men of a higher class, brought up with the anxious care for which Catholic parents and Catholic priests are so well known, and then sent to a university governed by men of high principle and education.

I am anxious to see the Catholics of Ireland cordially co-operate with the authorities of Trinity College in this matter.

1st. Because I am satisfied that if we had all the money on earth we could not for some generations to come hope to have a Catholic College which would offer to our young men advantages in any way approaching those now ready to hand in Trinity College.

2nd. Because, even if we could start at once a Catholic College equal in every respect to Trinity College, I think we should in starting it and sending our sons to it be depriving ourselves of one of the most effectual means of bridging over the gulf which now divides parties in Ireland.

If you strictly separate Catholic and Protestant young men until they are twenty-two or twenty-three years of age, and then they are brought together only by the hard necessities of the business of life, will there not be a certain awkwardness, if not something worse, between them which all the Christian charity in the world will not rub off?

I do not think we could do better than get up a new edition of the petition of 1795.

I have, &c.,
A CATHOLIC EX-SCHOLAR OF TRINITY COLLEGE.

A NEW GUNPOWDER.—Sportsmen should be on the look-out for a new gunpowder of which wonderful things are spoken. It is the discovery of a Bavarian chemist, M. Hahn, who has carried specimens to France to be tried at Vincennes and to excite the enthusiasm of the Paris journalists. According to one of these, a learned abbe, well known in the scientific world, the compound is twice as powerful as the best sporting powder, and costs only two francs the kilogramme—less than tenpence a pound. The materials for making it can be found in all countries, and a workman can produce 250 kilogrammes in a day. It makes little smoke, leaves little ash, and does not foul the gun; damp does not hurt it, nor a blow explode it; its transport is perfectly safe; its use highly agreeable. These are but a few of the virtues accorded to it by one who declares that he exaggerates nothing. This is discouraging, for no one will believe in a powder, or anything else, that has no fault whatever. In the course of his praises the good man overshoots his mark; he says that the recoil of this powder is insignificant, which can only mean that its expansive energy is low. But if only a tenth part of its asserted good qualities be real, the explosive must be a good thing both for sporting and fighting men.—French Paper.

FLOATING WRECK.—Captain Lodwick, of the Darra, reports that, on July 11, in latitude 37° N., longitude 18° W., saw what at first was supposed to be a large boat on the horizon, but, on altering his course, and bearing down, it proved to be the hull of a vessel, looking like a large American schooner, which had been some time derelict, for the name was so completely covered with barnacles as to prevent identity, and on passing close alongside it was evidently untenanted, and therefore the Darra continued on her course.—South Australian Register, September 30.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 12, 1869.

WE have received by late communications two pieces of useful information. One is, that a person somewhere in London has undertaken to rally the colonies, and form them into a Republic; and invites us to correspondence. He will thus perform, pro tem., the offices of a central Government, and give the signal when the time of action shall come. The other piece of information is, that a "flying squadron," dispatched by the Home Government, is about to visit the colonies of the Empire, and among the rest to look in at Hobart Town and to give us a call at Sydney.

These facts must be shaken and taken together. It would not be very safe to deliberate in a hostile spirit under the cannon of a flying squadron; and the rapidity of its movements might make it formidable in its absence. The dispatch of this force is intended to express the interest of Great Britain in the colonies as well as to assert her power over them; not indeed in a hostile spirit, but with that manifestation of strength without which pretensions to authority are apt to be disregarded. It is indeed time that the Government of England should have a livelier idea of the value of the colonies, and manifest some disposition to maintain the influence of the Crown by an occasional demonstration. There is in all colonies a certain set of impatient people. They have never calculated, indeed, what independence would cost, or what the duties it would impose; but there is something very attractive to their minds in the idea of holding a dominion which there is none to dispute "from the centre all round to the sea." They have never calculated very clearly in what way this absolute independence is to be exercised, or what are the advantages it is expected to bring. Perhaps, in addition to any arguments we might on the spot oppose to their particular ambition, it is just as well for the British nation to show some little energy in the maintenance of imperial power, in order that so sudden a movement of a small section may force the colonies to yield to pretensions which the great majority may deem to be not only premature, but absurd.

It is said, we have not the slightest doubt with perfect truth, that the prevailing tone of the recent Administrations has tended to provoke this independence. The Tory party are perhaps less inclined to cast away the colonies, on abstract principles of fitness, than their rivals, but at present they are angry with the colonial Empire. The ideas which have found more or less of currency, arising partly from circumstances which we know to be inevitable, have produced something like spite, or, at all events, indifference; and they are disposed to say that it would be really a convenience if the colonial Empire could either be brought into harmony with the policy of their party, or were entirely separated from the nation. This, however, is only a temporary ill-feeling. There is, indeed, no longer any patronage to bestow. There is no longer any patronage for the aristocracy in colonial Governments. But the great body of the English nation are only just awakening to the value of such outlets for the dissatisfied population, and such a vast market for British industry. Sooner or later reasonable sentiments will prevail. The manufacturing interest has looked too exclusively at the cost of the colonies in the army and naval estimates, and dealt with this item as an obnoxious charge upon their profits. Time, however, will impress those who have taken this view with the connection between the general security of the Empire and the safety of their commercial enterprise, and a more equitable if not more generous idea will prevail of the reciprocal duties of the two parties who for the present are represented as having interests in collision.

It would, however, be a great mistake for any persons to imagine that the speeches which are occasionally made, whether in Parliament or in public meetings, represent the final view of the English people; or that any wild attempt to set up separate Governments would not meet with resistance. But whatever might be the course of British politicians the question for the colonies still remains to be solved—will it be of any benefit to quit the political connection which binds the colonies with the parent State? Would their relations with foreign Powers be more safe or more respectable? What is the history of the South American Republics? Would not this be repeated in the experience of the colonies? Would not some angry State, perhaps inferior in the scale of nations, make up for want of influence in Europe by insulting our ports and making war on our trade? Would the Australias, as borrowing communities, stand better with the lending interest? Would they obtain money with more facility from the capitalist, having no power of enforcing payment excepting by a declaration of war? Without question of the honesty of the colonies, would there not be at once a disinclination to entrust them with money to remain for a long period of time, with the risk of being finally lost? Would there be any advantage in the new relations of the colonies with each other compared with Great Britain? Would they be better treated if weak by their stronger brethren? Is there anything in the character of the colonial Governments to give them an assurance of equity? Would there be any real advantage in forming a central Government out of the probable materials of existing colonies? We could only expect that a general Government would be formed of the same elements that constitute our several colonial Administrations; and are any of them of that complexion which would assure those not possessed of superior power, and whose interests were in opposition, that they would be treated with fairness? It is possible, from indifference or from ignorance, that wrong may be done by the parent State; but certainly the tone of public life is much higher in its highest circles, and, at all events, remonstrances are more likely to be heard with respect than if addressed to Governments of colonial origin. The advantage of an appeal to a central Court may be admitted; but it would not be worth the cost in comparison with an appeal to the highest judicature of Great Britain. Probably these appeals might be greatly diminished, and we should have, at a small sacrifice, in the highest legal authorities of the Empire, a safer guide. Would the security of internal government be greater were the British authority withdrawn? Does not the prestige, which costs nothing, discourage dangerous innovations and wild pretences to a capricious liberty. It is true there may be no British force accessible, but there is the name of a great Empire which overawes the insolence of petty demagogues, and which indeed, though not exerted, is in itself a power. We are not speaking now of dependencies whose laws and administration are subject to an imperial will; but for all the practical advantages of government the colonists are as free as if they were independent. They have a right within a very large range of operations to do precisely as they will. They may indulge in capricious experiments, and make small fiscal revolutions, and no one will gainsay their discretion. The superintending authority exercised by the parent State, which is necessary for the unity of the Empire, and for the harmonious administration of law, is of so mild a character that he must be indeed prone to discontent who can see in it any cause of jealousy, or any motive for change.

The gentleman who has undertaken with such zeal to promote the establishment of an Australian Republic had perhaps better wait a few years before he attempts to carry out his plans. We have never doubted that Australian independence is among the things to come. It is certain that any hurry in the liberation so fondly predicted is utterly unnecessary, and must be mischievous.

In the meantime, the flying squadron that will shortly visit us will give us an evidence of Imperial power in the State to which we belong. It will show that the arm of Great Britain is still of long reach, and that if, with a generous or even careless indifference, the colonists are permitted to govern themselves as they please, it is not because there is no power to enforce obedience, or that every man of his own authority is entitled to raise the flag of separation. In short, we can do nothing better than put the papers containing the programme of a new Empire under the table; and give Admiral HORNBY and his flying squadron a cordial cheer.

FOR seven years our Parliament has been endeavouring to amend the law relating to the proclamation and opening of Roads, and though different Ministries have tried their hands at the matter, none of them have been able to succeed, and the Minister who now once more makes the attempt acknowledges that he is not very sanguine that he will be able to pass the bill, but he will try. It is admitted, however, that the measure is really wanted—that the existing law is cumbrous and inoperative—that the Administration is restrained from doing what it admits to be its duty—and that the beneficial occupation of land is in many places hindered by the absence of roads.

It may seem strange that a measure so much needed, and as to certain portions of which all parties are agreed, should have been unable, session after session, to force its way through the Legislature. One reason given for the delay is, that it is not a party measure, that the passing of it has not been rendered necessary for party purposes, and that no Government, therefore, has been able or willing to rally its followers and push it forward. But other measures have been passed during the same period of seven years which have not been party measures, and they have managed to edge their way safely through both Houses. The truer reason for the delay is given in the statement that the measure affects private rights, and these have been adverse to the provisions hitherto submitted. These private rights have found their public exponents. There have been sufficient parliamentary representatives of these interests to throw enough obstruction in the way. There has not been a Ministry that did not count among its own supporters some persons adverse to the measure, and this is the reason why no Ministry has been able to collect its party in its support, for the warmest partisan never loses sight of his personal interest, and all the efforts of the Ministerial whip are wasted on him when he is asked to vote money out of his own pocket. As one speaker candidly stated, the measures introduced had been altogether in the public interest, forgetting those of private individuals.

Mr. FORSTER has now met this objection. He has produced a bill which makes a concession to private landholders, and which, therefore, may have a chance of passing. This concession is contained in the twelfth clause of his bill, and consists in surrendering the right of the Crown to make roads through private property without compensation for the land taken. In all the old grants issued, the right to make roads through the land was reserved. It has always been argued that the Crown has a right to avail itself of this reservation. Much of the land was given away for nothing, much of it was sold at a low price, and some of it was even measured in excess to make allowance for the probable deduction for roads to be made hereafter. Why, then, it is asked, should the Crown have to pay again for land to which it has already a right? But, as long as this view was taken, the bill could not get passed. Mr. FORSTER now comes forward and proposes to abandon this Crown right, except so far as it has been already exercised. Of course, he does not do this out of any conciliatory disposition. He is far too ardent a stickler for abstract principles to be guilty of the weakness of expediency even as a Minister. But he is in the happy position of being able to make the offer on principle. It is his opinion that the Crown had no power ever to make such a reservation. It will be rather difficult, however, to prove this, as alienation may be made subject to any conditions the alienor may impose, supposing that they are not illegal. There is more to be said for his second objection, which is that the restriction is void from vagueness. Nothing is said as to the quantity to be taken, or as to the direction of the roads. Stretched to its utmost the power might be used to take away an indefinite quantity of an estate, and to do any amount of damage by the intersection of a property which might be spoiled by being cut up. There is also much force in his third objection, which is that such a power might be very tyrannically used, and that it is not safe to leave such risks open to the chances of unscrupulous Administrations.

In addition to these reasons advanced by the Minister, others have been added. It is urged that, though large grants were given away, they were so given at a time when they were worth very little, and they were given for the special purpose of inducing capitalists to come out and settle. The system is not a good one, and it is open to many abuses. But it was a sort of bargain made in the currency of the time, namely land, and the State got a sort of quid pro quo. In a small way we are, in fact, proposing to return to the same principle, and are offering immigrants small parcels of land on consideration of their bringing themselves to the country, and settling down. The State, therefore, having held out the bait of free grants as an inducement to immigration, cannot now go back over the terms of the contract, and argue that, because land was given for nothing, it may be retaken without payment.

Then, again, it is pointed out that many of these large estates have been subdivided, and though the owner of 10,000 acres might be no sufferer, and might perhaps be a gainer by a public road being run through his property, it is a very different matter for the owner of fifty or a hundred acres. In his case the road takes a large proportion of his land, and the severance might be very injurious. It may also be added that it is impolitic to insist upon strict rights when so to insist is on the whole of little or no public advantage. The Crown is entitled to a royalty on all the gold produced, yet we have abandoned the right, and are giving up the export duty which is the last vestige of its substitute. The tendency of all modern legislation is to abandon all reserved rights. The Crown finds compensation in the good of the common weal and in the taxes levied on the public prosperity.

On the matter of principle, Mr. ROBERTSON does not agree with his colleague, but this is of little practical importance, as he is not such a stickler for theory, and is willing to waive an abstract right in order to get the bill passed, and the public accommodated. He thinks that the Crown having reserved the right to make roads without paying for the land, ought to have its right, but he will give the point up rather than fight it any longer, and he appeals to the ex-Minister for Lands to be as pliant.

The bill also provides for the erection of gates where the limited use of the road makes it scarcely worth while to incur the expense of fencing. But this saving of money has the disadvantage of establishing a new crime. To leave a gate open wilfully makes a man liable to a fine of fifty pounds, or six months' imprisonment. There is propriety in Mr. WILSON's suggestion that the words "Public Gate" should be painted legibly on all gates erected by and for the convenience of the Government. With the fencing that is going on, gates will be abundant, and a stranger to the country ought to be warned as to where he runs a risk of a special penalty, and where he is violating the laws of the State as well as exposing himself to the risk of a civil action.

That part of the bill which relates to travelling stock, and which will be further dealt with in the Impounding Bill, touches a difficult question. If grass and water along the line of route are to be considered private, then the cost of moving stock from one part of the country to another will be very serious, unless ample reserves are made along all the principal lines of route. The squatter who pays the Crown rent for his run may be said to have as much right to a way out for his flocks and herds as the small farmer has to a right-of-way out for his grain and his produce, and yet the privilege has been grossly abused. Stockowners who have been parched out or burnt out, or who have more stock than they have land, make a convenience of the travelling privilege, to graze up and down the country at the expense of more honest or more careful settlers. The Crown, which gets the rent of the land, is bound to see that its tenants enjoy quiet possession.

WAVERLEY WESLEYAN CHURCH.—The anniversary of the opening of the Waverley Wesleyan church was commemorated, yesterday, by a tea-meeting, in the school-room adjacent to the church, which was followed by a public meeting in the church. The tables at the first meeting were well filled, and at the second there was more than an average attendance. After devotional services by the Rev. G. Woolnough, the minister of the church, Mr. C. K. Moore was elected to the chair. Mr. James Vickery explained to the meeting the financial position of the church. The receipts and disbursements of the past year were within a few shillings of a balance. The trustees had, in a former year, been enabled by an advance of £600 from the loan fund to discharge the liabilities of the church, which loan is repaid by quarterly payments of £25, and for which they are not charged with interest. They have since erected schoolrooms and a residence for the chapel-keeper at a further cost of £760, of which £300 has been paid, leaving a balance of £460. The Rev. G. Woolnough followed, and briefly stated what he wished now to be done—namely, to subscribe the odd £60, by which means he would be in a position to ask from the loan fund a loan of the remaining £400, which he had little doubt would be at once acceded to, and by which means they will avoid payment of interest. He trusted that they would give according to the scriptural rule—as the Lord had prospered them, and he had little doubt but the sum would be subscribed before they separated. The meeting was addressed also by the Revs. W. H. George, J. M'Gibbon, and J. Watkin, and then the matter of money was reverted to. The chairman opened the subscription by requesting his name to be put down for £10. The sum subscribed was not announced, but Mr. Woolnough said that with the addition of some subscriptions he expected to receive from other friends, he would not require to ask for more than £300 from the loan fund. A doxology was sung, and the meeting was closed with the benediction.

DOGS.—Keepers of dogs are reminded that they will be liable to prosecution unless the animals shall be registered on or before Thursday next.

THE REV. JAMES VOLLER.—We regret to hear that, from the increasing infirmity of voice, this gentleman has been compelled to resign the pastorate of the first Baptist Church in this city. At the urgent request of the church and congregation he will continue to officiate as his health may permit, until a successor can be obtained from England. By the last mail, a minister, holding a high position, was written to, inviting him to come out to occupy the vacant post. Mr. Voller, it will be remembered, undertook a voyage to England in the hope that entire cessation from public speaking would restore his vocal powers. But on his return to his ministerial duties, it was soon found that to continue them efficiently was impossible. Hence, much to his own disappointment, as well as to the regret of his attached people, the present step has been taken.

ELECTORATE OF THE GLEBE.—A public meeting was held last evening, at the Lady of the Lake, Bay-street, Glebe, for the purpose of taking into consideration the propriety of petitioning Parliament for a division of the electorate. Mr. G. Wigram Allen, Mayor of the Glebe, presided. The attendance was not very large. After reading the advertisement by which the meeting had been convened, the chairman remarked that he had long been of opinion that Balmain and the Glebe ought to be separated into two electorates. There were electorates in the colony with a less number of electors than the Glebe, but which returned two members; and now that a bill for altering some of the electoral districts was about to be considered by Parliament, he thought it right that the electors of the Glebe and Balmain should take advantage of the opportunity, and do what they could to induce the Legislature to divide the electorate into two. Mr. James Simpson moved the first resolution:—"That a deputation be appointed to wait on the Hon. Colonial Secretary, upon the subject of the division of the Glebe and Balmain electorate—that they may in future consist of two electorates, each returning one member to the Legislative Assembly." In moving the resolution, he said the subject of the division of the electorate was one upon which the Glebe electors had made many complaints. The people desired to be represented in Parliament as well as possible, and as there was nothing in common between the people of the Glebe and Balmain, he thought it was only proper that some steps should be taken for dividing the electorate. There were about 2225 electors in the district, and yet they were only allowed to return one member, whilst by the bill now before Parliament, it was proposed that St. Leonards, which only contained about 1475 electors, should have two representatives, instead of one as at present. If the St. Leonards electorate was to be allowed to return two members, surely the Glebe, with nearly double the number of electors, should be allowed to return two also. Another reason why the Glebe and Balmain should be allowed to return two members, was because they were large and important boroughs, and contained a considerable amount of wealth. The motion was seconded by Mr. Riley, and agreed to unanimously. The Mayor of the Glebe, and Messrs. Simpson, Dibbs, Brown, and Mansfield, were appointed a deputation to carry into effect the foregoing resolution. Mr. Fennell said that about twelve months ago the subject of separating the electorate was agitated at Balmain, and a petition to the Legislature was very numerously signed. In consequence of the Government resigning about the same time, the petition was not presented. But the people of Balmain were still in favour of separation, and he believed a meeting to further that desire would be called during the week. He could assure the Glebe people, therefore, that they would receive every support from the people of Balmain in favour of the separation movement. Mr. Sydney Smith, secretary to the Balmain Working Men's Institute, read a letter which he had received from Mr. T. W. Smart, M.L.A., who now represents the Glebe in Parliament. In that letter, Mr. Smart states that it is not his intention again to offer himself as a candidate for a seat in Parliament. Mr. Harwood moved the adoption of a petition to Parliament praying for a division of the electorate of the Glebe. In looking over the returns of the number of electors in each electorate of the colony, he found that the Hawkesbury district, with only 1532 electors, returned two members; East Macquarie had 2278 electors, and returned two members; Parramatta had 1273 electors, and returned two members; Central Cumberland had 2146 electors, and returned two members. The Clarence district had 2988 electors, and it was proposed by the bill introduced before the House the other day that it should have power to return two members. Paddington had 3285 electors, and returned one member, but it was proposed to give it an additional representative. It appeared that there were 1100 electors in the Glebe, and 1125 at Balmain, and if the electorates which he had named were allowed to return two members, he certainly thought the Glebe ought to have the same privilege. The motion for the adoption of the petition was seconded and agreed to; it was also resolved that a deputation wait upon the Hon. G. Eagar with the petition, and to request him to use his influence in getting the Legislature to grant its prayer. Mr. Robinson, Mayor of Balmain, explained to the meeting that it was intended to call a meeting for a similar object at Balmain sometime during the present week, and he had no doubt some such steps would be taken as had been taken by the Glebe people. Mr. G. R. Dibbs then moved "That the members of the deputation, who have just been appointed, together with the following gentlemen, namely, Messrs. Riley, Harwood, Whitfield, and W. Clark, form a committee for the purpose of carrying into effect the objects which the meeting have in view." He thought a measure for the alteration of some of the electoral districts of the colony was one which would be eyed very jealously by other electorates; and, as it was probable the Parliament would be dissolved before many days, he saw little chance of such a measure passing during the present session. But the separation of the Glebe electorate ought to have been done long ago, and he had no doubt it would be done—if not before the dissolution of the present Parliament, at all events soon after the new one had been assembled. As to the future representative of the Glebe, he knew of no gentleman who would so ably represent them, or who had more interest in the electorate, than their chairman, Mr. George Wigram Allen. The motion was then seconded, and agreed to. A vote of thanks was passed to the chairman for presiding, and the meeting terminated. Nearly all of those who were in the room signed the petition to Parliament.

AUSTRALIAN PATRIOTIC ASSOCIATION.—The usual weekly meeting of the Australian Patriotic Association was held, last night, at the New Temperance Hall, Bathurst and Pitt streets, Mr. R. B. Smith, the president of the society, being in the chair. The principal business of the evening was the resumption of the debate upon the abolition of capital punishment. At the preceding meeting Mr. Macdonald had, it appeared, argued in favour of the abolition of the punishment of death, and on this occasion Mr. Pegus rose to maintain the contrary hypothesis. In his address Mr. Pegus combated the arguments of Mr. Macdonald at some considerable length. He denied that any disproof as to the necessity of capital punishment was fairly to be inferred from the fact that such a kind of punishment had been virtually inoperative in China. The Chinese were a nation of barbarians, wholly ignorant of those gospel precepts which elevated humanity and taught all men their just responsibilities. He also took exception to the view that any argument were to be deduced from the Mosaic Law; we lived, it must be remembered, under the Christian dispensation, and were not expected to be absolutely guided in our ideas as to jurisprudence from what was laid down in the Old Law. At the same time he desired it to be understood that he did not advocate capital punishment as a question of mere economy, as Mr. Harpur seemed to have done, but because he felt fully convinced that it was as morally right as it was wise and expedient. He insisted that in extreme cases, such as those in which deliberate murder had been committed, it was impossible effectually to deal with the criminal in any other way than to take from him all power of doing any further harm. After a few remarks from Mr. Harpur, in explanation of his argument, which he considered to have been misstated by Mr. Pegus, Mr. M'Donald denied that the Chinese were barbarians. They had been civilised long before Christ came into the world. Christianity was, moreover, not the only means of civilisation, although he admitted it to have always exercised a predisposing tendency to promote civilisation. Mr. O'Connor thought religion ought to be left out of the question altogether. The point at issue was, he thought, quite irrespective of any such principles as those attempted to be laid down by some of the speakers. In France and in Prussia the infliction of the punishment of death was studiously discouraged both by the law and by public opinion; and these two nations were certainly at the head of civilisation and of progress. He felt confident that reliable statistics would prove that a more judicious and humane system of punishment than that which had been so warmly advocated was always found to be the best. Mr. Tanner argued that an entire abolition of capital punishment would result in the infliction of a grievous wrong upon the well-being of society. It was a mere theoretical idea to think that capital punishment could be safely dispensed with. Mr. Tanner said that, however cruel capital punishment might appear to be in the abstract, it had unhappily been proved, by sad experience, to be the only mode by which the dreadful crime of murder may be properly restrained or satisfactorily diminished. There was in this city a society of gentlemen formed with the desire of doing away with capital punishment. These philanthropic gentlemen were, doubtless, actuated by the best of motives, but their proposed plans were visionary and impractical. It was more horrible that a man who had deliberately embrued his hands in blood should escape to repeat his crime, than that he should sternly, and for ever, be debarred from his career of blood. Mr. Devlin moved the adjournment of the debate, and Mr. Harpur seconded it. The debate was thereupon adjourned till Monday evening next, at 8 o'clock. Before the debate there was a committee meeting of the association. It is understood that a cricket club in connection with this association is about to be formed.

ATHLETIC SPORTS AT BOTANY.—On the Prince of Wales' Birthday, a series of Athletic sports are announced to take place in the pretty grounds attached to the Sir Joseph Banks Hotel, Botany, for which entries will be received this evening at the Royal Hotel. The sports include bicycle races, running, jumping, walking, &c., which will come off on the large green in front of the hotel, which lately has undergone considerable improvement.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.—As it now seems settled that the Bogan electorate is to have the privilege of returning two members at the general election (says the Dubbo Dispatch), the names may be mentioned of several candidates for the second seat. Our friend, Dr. Tibbets, has expressed his intention to woo the soft voices of the electors, and as that gentleman always means what he says, we shall doubtless be soon called upon to give his address to the public. Mr. Thomas Manning, of Dubbo, will, it is said, be nominated, and one or two who always know a great deal aver that his recent visit to Bourke was in some remote way connected with the coming election.

CARGO.—A correspondent writes on October 6th. Our machine has just finished 48 tons of stone, (from Bonney's Reck Reef, some eight miles from here, which was reported last evening (Tuesday), and resulted in over 70 oz. of gold, or 1½ oz. to the ton payable. Hawkins and party, No. 2 Ironclad, continue to get some first-class prospects. A few days ago they crushed 3½ lbs. stone, which resulted in 4 oz. 8 dwts. and a few grains. Last Saturday they washed some rubble, and obtained over 2 oz. The prospecting claim Ironclad is the next on the list for crushing. It is first-rate stone, and returned 4 oz. 15 dwts. the last crushing. There is a rumour of another machine from Grenfell, Parker's 25-stamper, coming up to Cargo. Also Mr. Wall, J.P., has offered to erect a machine here on a certain guarantee. We have had a very heavy fall of rain for two days and two nights, and equally at present.

GRAZING PROSPECTS TO THE NORTH-WEST.—The prospects of the squatting interest in the north-west (says the Dubbo Dispatch of Saturday) are at present very promising, so far as the season is concerned. Grass and water are everywhere abundant; the holes and billabongs, the dams and other artificial conservators are filled to overflowing. On the Darling along the Macquarie, Lower Bogan, and Castlereagh, as well as in the immediate vicinity of Dubbo, the same state of things exist. Last Friday, two hours of the heaviest rain ever known there, fell at Bourke; and we further hear that the downpour of Tuesday and Wednesday extended along the Macquarie, and Bogan to the junction of the latter with the Darling. In the back country there have also been genial rains, which have freshened up the grass and herbage, and provided a good supply of water for the summer.

THE PRE-EMPTIVE QUESTION.—It is stated in the Monaro Mercury that—"A case was last week brought under observation which includes the important question so often asked and so long neglected by the Government, viz., can a person take up a conditional purchase on one run and have his pre-emptive lease on the adjoining. The question is one of such importance as to justify us in referring to it as fully as consistent with the interests of the parties concerned. The case stands thus:—On adjoining runs belonging to A and B (squatters) C (free selector) takes up 320 acres on B's run; C applies for his pre-emptive, which is granted and taken on A's run, a creek forming a permanent boundary. B informs C that in consequence of his having taken his conditional purchase on one run and his pre-emptive lease on the adjoining he (C) has no right to the pre-emptive, and B instructs his shepherd to run 2000 sheep over it. The question is, therefore, do the land laws warrant the squatter in so doing, or do they warrant or justify the Government in receiving rent for the same block of land from the squatter and the free selector? It is nonsense to imagine that such can be the intention of the Land Acts, and yet it is known the Government receive double payment for the land, thereby causing much annoyance, if not litigation. On this particular point we are informed by a gentleman recently returned from Sydney that, whilst transacting some business in the Land and Survey Departments, he made some inquiries, and was informed that instructions had been issued by the Government not to grant a pre-emptive lease in such cases as the present, and further that those who held such leases were liable to lose them at any moment. But these instructions have not been conveyed to the public through the proper channel—they have not been gazetted as having received the sanction of the Executive Council and the Governor, they are consequently perfectly valueless. There is no point in the Land Laws which requires so much attention and delicate handling as this matter of the pre-emptive, and it must be admitted that disputes of the nature above mentioned are becoming more frequent, and demand the immediate consideration of the Government."

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, WAGGA WAGGA.—The foundation stone of the above church was laid on Wednesday last by Sir Alfred Stephen, on which occasion he read the following address to the Rev. Mr. Craig, and the Building Committee:—"I have thought that a few words might be expected from me on this occasion; and therefore have felt it to be desirable, if not more respectful to yourselves, to consider beforehand what would be most fitting for me to say, and to give expression to my feelings and thoughts in a written address, rather than by spoken words merely. In the first place, while returning you my acknowledgments for the honour done me, of which no man can be more sensible, I owe it to myself to confess my deep consciousness, personally, how unworthy I am to occupy the position assigned to me; and to declare frankly, that for that reason and others I should have preferred to decline it, if I had—all things considered—felt myself at liberty to do so. I have rarely taken part, at any time, in a purely religious ceremonial. But, remembering the many years during which I have, however imperfectly, discharged the duties of Chief Magistrate, and the connection that exists between these and the more sacred functions of the clergy, of every denomination, I felt that the call made upon me, whether as a Judge or as a colonist at the head of a large family of colonists, could not with propriety be refused. I am glad, at least, of the opportunity afforded me, as a member of the Church of England, of publicly recognising, or rather of claiming, cordial fellowship with our Sister Church, and of heartily wishing for her ministers, everywhere, the accomplishment under God of the largest measure of success, in their holy mission. In this I speak unreservedly, and believe that I may do so equally for the great majority in our communion. In avowing this as my feeling, shared in by so many others, let me add that I extend it, for my own part, much further. There is scarcely one Protestant denomination to which I could not give readily the right hand of fellowship, and heartily hope it God speed. The older I grow, the less I am disposed to regard dogmas, and Ecclesiastical systems; while the more I am persuaded of the value, the efficacy and power, of the essentials of our common faith. It is impossible for us, being Protestants, to regard with equal favour the ministrations of our Roman Catholic brethren. We wonder how any man, once blessed with that which alone is to us true and light, should ever become a recreant from it. But neither charity nor wisdom is exhibited, whatever the strength of our convictions, in denouncing with sectarian vehemence the doctrines or system from which we dissent; as if we alone were necessarily infallible, or nothing else could be looked at except from our own point of view. It is not calm discussion that is deprecated. But that religion is the most pure, which is the most peaceable. And brotherly love, and kindly feeling, the personal friendships, between those of faiths the most widely opposed, are quite compatible with the most ardent love of truth. The only things against which we should array ourselves, and with which we may lawfully wage incessant war, are vice and crime. And in this wide field, each in his own sphere of labour, the minister of religion and the Judge fight under the same banner, against common enemies. But to us is assigned the less important function. The laws prescribe for our criminals punishment only. We have no rewards to offer; no higher incentive or motive to peacefulness and honesty than the escape from prosecution, and from the suffering consequent on conviction in the courts. It is thus that we seek to restrain others of the ill disposed, incipient swindlers, and cattle stealers, and bushrangers from following a dangerous example. To the clergy, on the contrary, belongs the more grateful task, of presenting influences and considerations the highest, and holiest, and most enduring. It is theirs to reclaim from evil by operating on the conscience; to nip crime in the bud, by teaching that an Almighty and Omniscient Being sees and will assuredly punish it; to correct sin, by holding up to men the Bible, with its consoling hopes and awful sanctions; to lead them, from youth upwards, to contemplate the happiness of a glorious immortality—and so to prevent wrong doing, by an all-pervading sense of its hatefulness in the sight of God. It is my earnest hope that, in the house of which we have to-day laid the foundation, the great truths of that Book may be so displayed and enforced, as to lead those who hear to embrace them, to their welfare temporal and eternal; and thus that the work now begun may, year after year, largely contribute to the peace and good order, the prosperity and happiness, of this town and neighbourhood."

RIVER NAVIGATION.—The Albury Banner observes:—The steamboats have had a lively time of it during the last week, since the river began to rise. The Waradgery arrived on Sunday, 3rd instant, and left again on the following day. The Corowa arrived on Tuesday, bringing 60 tons of cargo. She left on her downward passage on Thursday morning, about 6 o'clock, taking a cargo of bran, pollard, and wine. The Corowa stopped at Howlong, and there completed her full cargo by taking in a considerable quantity of flour. The river has risen rapidly during the last week—it was at 5 feet 8 inches last Saturday, 10 feet 8 inches on Tuesday, 12 feet on Thursday, on Friday it was 12 feet 2 inches. The Wodonga flats are, of course, flooded. Rain has fallen off and on for the last week.

THE PERILS OF TRAVELLING.—The Gundagai Times of Saturday says:—The recent heavy rain and consequent flooded state of the rivers and creeks in these districts has nearly caused some serious accidents. On Friday last, as Mrs. Murphy and her father, Mr. Robert Riley of Gundagai, were going to Tumut on horseback, in crossing the Gilmore causeway her horse tripped against the culvert and fell, throwing her into the deep water. In falling her habit became entangled in the horn of her saddle, and being torn asunder spread out on the water and kept her afloat. Meantime Mr. Riley urged his horse into the stream to his daughter's assistance, and having succeeded in extricating her, uninjured but thoroughly drenched, the pair pursued their journey to Tumut. We have also heard that a son of the Rev. D. P. M. Hulbert came to grief and had his horse drowned in a creek near Kimo.

FICTION AND FREE LIBRARIES.—In alluding to the opening of the Free Library, and the expression of a hope that it will not sink into a Sensational Novel Library, the Lachlan Reporter goes on to say:—"We speak thus from our knowledge of the mode of supplying the libraries of institutions of a similar character that figure on the yearly estimates for £100 a year, more or less each, that the major part of these sums are actually employed in purchasing works of fiction, which is nearly every case form the staple of these libraries. There is something remarkable in State-aid being asked for such a purpose, and what is more astounding still, is the fact that it is usually granted as a matter of course as being one of the good things which a paternal government is bound to supply the people."

AN ORDER FOR TASMANIAN SALMON.—Tasmanians (says the Hobart Town Mercury) are slow to believe that we have really acclimatised the veritable salmon in the waters of the Derwent; but the next best thing to the actual fact is the having the credit of having done so. Our neighbours believe that we have, at least, a letter from the fishmonger in Sydney who provides for his Excellency the Earl of Belmore will safely bear that interpretation. The person in question writes to a well-known dealer in piscatorial delicacies here to send him up by the next steamer a supply of salmon for the Governor's table, and to let him know, at the same time, at what rate he can

THE REV. MR. COOMBES.—The Dubbo Dispatch understands that the Bishop of Sydney has allowed the Rev Mr. Coombes, incumbent of Trinity Parish, Dubbo, two years' leave of absence. The leave was granted on account of severe affliction in the rev. gentleman's family in England, and the term of years having expired for which he accepted duty in the colony.

ANOTHER GHOST.—We regret to state (says the Gundagai Times), that the bunyip which used to live in a pool in the Murrumbidgee, near Gundagai, seems to have quitted his old quarters; but we learn that a ghost has come to dwell amongst us, possibly as compensation for the above loss. We cannot as yet indicate the spectre's residence, if it has one; but the culvert familiarly termed Bennett's Folly, on the sideling of Mount Parnassus, seems one of its haunts, as we have been informed that on Sunday evening last a gentleman resident in our locality who was riding past this spot was there confronted by the supernatural visitant. It rose apparently from under the culvert, tall, shadowy, and with a livid phosphoric light playing about it, such as a bad fish hung in a dark place exhibits. As the shape approached the startled steed reared, and the rider's hair stood on end; but the apparition seemed to pass under the horse, and disappeared with a faint hollow-sound, like a distant dying groan. We need not say that the horseman made all haste to quit the spot; but we may add that another party avers that he has seen this spectre in the same place, that it passed him by like a flash of fire, and that he thought his whiskers were singed off by it. So far this is satisfactory; every place ought to be celebrated for something, and a well authenticated local ghost would add considerably to our township's reputation.

THE SQUATTING CASE AGAINST THE QUEENSLAND GOVERNMENT.—The hearing of this important case commenced on Wednesday, the 29th ultimo, at Rockhampton, before Mr. Justice Lutwyche, and a special jury. This was an action by plaintiff against the Government, for damages, for refusing to grant him leases of certain portions of country, and for having granted leases of the same country to others, of one portion to Manson, Frazer, and Richards, and of another portion to Moriarty and Watt. The defendant pleaded a general issue to all the allegations. It appeared that one James Leith Hay had tendered for blocks of country named Ludwig, Durah, and Kilmore, in the Springsure district, then a portion of New South Wales; that Mr. Wiseman, Commissioner of Crown Lands, sent in amended descriptions of this country in 1860; that the tenders were accepted; the country comprised an area of twenty-five square miles, and extended from Springsure Creek to Minerva Creek; that subsequently Hay transferred all his right and title to this country to the plaintiff, who took possession of it, and held it until 1866, and had spent money on it, and done all things necessary for its occupation; that the Government refused to grant him leases, and granted them to others, of one portion to Frazer, Manson, and Richards, and of another portion to Moriarty and Watt; that plaintiff had received notice from Richards that his sheep would be impounded if he did not remove them from the country within forty-eight hours; that he was forced in consequence to remove his sheep from the runs, to his great loss. He estimated his loss, by the Government refusing to grant him leases, and by his being obliged to abandon the country, at not less than £25,000, and claimed £30,000. The hearing of evidence relating principally to the locality and boundaries of the land in dispute, and to various documents, was gone into, and continued during six days. On Tuesday the case concluded, a verdict being obtained by the plaintiff for £16,926.

THE MELBOURNE CUP.—The Age of Tuesday says:—There was a great rush last week to see Maruka, and the general impression is favourable to the horse, but unfavourable as regards his chance for the cup. He is unquestionably a magnificent animal, but he is too backward in his condition to hope to win the Cup with 9st. 4 lb. on his back; and that, there is reason to believe, is his trainer's opinion. 100 to 8 can be got against him, and nothing but the power and force of money will drive him up to a shorter price. Circassion is a firm first favourite at 4 to 1, and is expected over here next week. Traverton looks a good handicap horse, and, as far as appearances go, is a dangerous rival at the weights; but knowing men stand off him, and he is rarely backed though 6 to 1 can be got. Sheet Anchor is firm at 10 to 1. Warrior is, however, not in favour, and the public do not take 12 to 1. Salem Scudder remains stationary in the market, but Strop has risen to 100 to 5, taken; 500 to 20 was laid to his trainer, Sam Haynes, but 100 to 5 is the price elsewhere. Kestrel was also to be backed at 200 to 5 to win £3000. For the Derby, Charon is now first favourite at 2 to 1. Lamplighter is reported amiss—said to be cold and strangles—and his stable companion (Kestrel) was backed at 100 to 15. The Fop is now and then operated on at 4 to 1, which is the most now obtained about him.

MR. TOWLER'S OVERLAND TELEGRAPH SCHEME.—Mr. Towler has received the following letter from the Government of Western Australia (says the S. A. Register) regarding his proposal for a guarantee of interest on a telegraph line via the Sound and North-West Cape to Java:—"Perth, Western Australia, September 14, 1869. Sir—I have received your note of August, stating that you had an interview with his Excellency Governor Weld respecting the proposed telegraphic communication with Europe via Western Australia, and that his Excellency was the bearer of official documents containing a request for a guarantee. I can only say at present that there is a strong feeling in favour of the proposed line, and that I do not apprehend any opposition to the proposed guarantee, or to the suggestion that this colony should place itself in communication with the several Governments requesting their co-operation in the Western route. The foregoing is however, but my individual opinion; by next mail I may be in a position to write more definitely on the subject. I am, Sir, &c. "FRED. P. BARLEE. "W. B. Towler, Esq."

HOSPITAL FOR THE INSANE, GLADESVILLE.—On Wednesday last a concert took place at this institution, in one of the large dormitories which had been cleared and decorated for the occasion. The vocalists were—Miss Wiseman and Miss Vernon, and Messrs. Fisher, Hall, and Chandler. Mr. Packer presided at, and played a solo on, the pianoforte; Mr. Hall played two solos on the flute, and Mr. Sinclair gave two very telling recitations. The following programme was listened to with marked attention by an audience of about 250, composed mainly of the patients in the hospital, and the frequent bursts of applause showed their appreciation of the treat provided for them. Programme: Glee—"The Chough and Crow;" ballad—"The Beacon that lights me home," Mr. Fisher; song—"Love's Request," Miss Vernon; glee—"Hark, Apollo;" song—"The Winter Night, Mr. Hall; recitation—"The Brigadier-General," Mr. Sinclair; solo, flute, Mr. Hare; glee—"Come, thou Monarch of the Vine;" song—"The Wood Nymph's Call," Miss Wiseman; part song—"The Last Rose of Summer;" ballad—"Tell me, Mary, how to woo thee," Mr. Fisher; solo pianoforte—Mr. Packer; glee—"The winds whistle cold;" song—"Home, sweet home," Miss Vernon; trio—"May Queen," Miss Wiseman, and Messrs. Fisher and Hall; sea song—"Poor Jack Brown," Mr. Hall; part song—"The Retreat;" solo, flute, Mr. Hare; recitation—"The Kilkenny Posts," Mr. Sinclair; song—"Merrily over the snow," Miss Wiseman; glee—"Mynheer van Dunck;" finale—"God save the Queen." The proceedings terminated by three hearty cheers for the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly gave their services on the occasion. On Friday, September 24th, the Rev. Christian Coletto, of Ashfield, assisted by Mr. Woods, exhibited a collection of views, and comic and other pictures, by aid of the magic lantern, with the oxy-calcium light, to a large number of the patients. The following donations for the amusement of the patients have been received by Dr. Manning:—3 emus, Acclimatisation Society, per Mr. C. Moore; 9 parrots, Mr. James E Boydell; 3 rabbits, Mr. J. R. Manning; 2 pet sheep, 1 opossum, Mr. J. A. Mann; 1 pet lamb, Mr. W. Smith; plants, shrubs, &c., the Hon. E. Deas Thomson, C.B., Sir William M. THE PRINCE OF WALES OPERA HOUSE.—Last evening the members of the Ministry and the Mayor of Sydney recognised the spirited efforts of the lessees to revive the legitimate drama by patronising the performance of "The Tempest. The artistic manner in which the play has been produced, the magnificence of its scenery and mechanical effects, and the excellent manner in which it is played have been already noticed. It is in all respects the most complete Shakesperian production seen on the Sydney stage. It may be thought that because a Brooke or a Kean does not play the leading business therefore it is not played effectively; but all who have witnessed it know how fallacious such an idea is. An even cast, when all engaged in it are competent to sustain their parts, without one throwing all the others in the shade, is far more conducive to the proper representation of a play than what is termed "star business," in which everything is sacrificed to give prominence to one character. Few plays have been so effectively supported here as "The Tempest." Mr. Hoskins's Prospero would do credit to any stage, and most of the other parts are admirably performed. Last night the play was loudly and deservedly applauded, and the afterpiece, in which Mr. C. Young, Miss Colville, Miss Carey, Messrs. Andrews Holloway, and Rainford sustained the parts, went off very pleasantly. Captain Brownrigg and the officers of H.M.S. Challenger patronise "The Tempest" on Wednesday evening, and it will only be played for two nights afterwards, as Miss Cleveland commences an engagement on

SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND BLIND.

THE annual meeting of the School for the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind was held, yesterday afternoon, at the institution, Paddington. The meeting was held in the schoolrooms, and was very numerously attended by ladies, who manifested a warm interest in the proceedings. The Earl of Belmore, who is the patron of the institution, occupied the chair; and his Excellency was accompanied by the Countess of Belmore, Captain Beresford, and Mrs. Beresford. The chairman began the business of the meeting by calling upon

The SECRETARY (Mr. Ellis Robinson) to read the following report:—

"To the subscribers to the New South Wales Deaf and Dumb and Blind Institution.

"Ladies and Gentlemen,—This institution, which for the last seven years your committee have had the pleasure of bringing annually under the public review as a school for the education of the deaf and dumb, appears now before you in connection with an additional charge,—namely, a school for the education of blind children. Your committee feel the importance of the double responsibility which now rests upon them, and while they cannot but give expression to their gratitude to Almighty God for the measure of success which has invariably accompanied their labours on behalf of the deaf and dumb throughout the seven years now past, they feel that they can confidently rely on the same Omnipotent Power in their endeavour to impart similar blessings to the uncared-for blind also; and they are not without a hope that the charitable community, whose contributions have so far strengthened their hands in this good cause, will feel that a sacred claim for a larger and a more extensive beneficence now rests upon them, and that renewed and additional efforts will be made by every friend of humanity and every lover of educational advancement in the colony on behalf of this charitable institution.

"The health of the children throughout the past year has been particularly good, and their progress in the acquirement of knowledge of a very satisfactory character. Their moral perceptions also are becoming enlightened and refined, and their religious exercises seem to have a salutary effect on their mind and conduct. The last annual examination of the deaf and dumb children in December was exceedingly interesting, and the written answers of several of the children to the various questions proposed in English Grammar, Geography, History, and Arithmetic, exhibited an acquaintance with all those branches of literature which surprised the assembled visitors, and called forth their warmest praise and admiration. Their knowledge of Scriptural characters, both in the Old and New Testaments, and their replies to questions regarding the nature of the soul of man, the introduction of sin into the world, its consequences, the character of Divine revelation, and its grand object with reference to man, were highly satisfactory, and reflected great credit both on the pupils themselves and their teacher, Mr. Gilder.

"The blind children have made remarkable progress under the instructions of Mr. Cashmore, who is himself a blind gentleman, and thoroughly familiar with the newest and best mode of imparting information to his pupils. His more advanced scholars are now able to read with tolerable accuracy, and all of them exhibit an aptness to learn, and a willingness to profit by his instructions.

"The matron, Mrs. Ashton, exercises a very mild, but effectual discipline over the entire school, and the obedience, the good order, and the gentle disposition of the pupils evince very clearly how much more potent are love and kindness, as elements of discipline, than fear and coercion.

"Your committee desire to acknowledge how very much they are indebted to the lady visitors for the success of the institution; the entire management of the house and its concerns, as well as the actual teaching of industrial pursuits, is directed and superintended by the ladies' committee.

"Your committee also desire to express their best thanks to the hon physician, Dr. Renwick, for his very kind and assiduous attention to the health of the children.

"To the Government and the Parliament of the colony the committee feel they are under great obligations for the patronage and support constantly received from them; and it is a subject of regret that this society has not as yet been able to avail itself of the sum of £1250 which at present stands upon the Estimates for this year towards the purchase of a suitable house for the asylum. However, they are not without a hope that, before the close of the year, a sum may be devoted to this charitable object by an absolute grant, in lieu of the above-mentioned sum, which will enable the committee to secure this desirable object at once. Your committee have received several applications from the neighbouring colonies which they have invariably attended to; but they presume that it cannot be regarded as too much to expect that, in the case of pauper children sent to this institution from places beyond the colony, the Government of such a colony should forward to the treasurer the small annual fee which the Government of our own colony advances for each pauper child sent by them to the institution.

"The children of parents unable to pay are received, boarded, and educated gratuitously. The terms for others are—For children under seven years of age, £20 per annum; above seven years of age, £25 per annum.

"Persons interested in the success of the cause are invited to visit the institution between the hours of 10 and 12 a.m. and 2 and 4 p.m., when the system of education and the apparatus for conveying instruction to the pupils will be exhibited by the officers of the school or a member of the committee."

The TREASURER (Mr. William Love, J.P.) then read the balance-sheet for the year. This document, together with the list of the subscribers, will be found in our advertising columns of this day's issue.

The Rev. Dr. LANG, M.L.A., moved the first resolution,—"That the report now read be adopted, and, together with the Treasurer's balance-sheet, printed and circulated." He did not expect, when he entered the room, to have anything to do in the way of speaking. He had come somewhat of an invalid, and he did not anticipate any duty of that kind; but his esteemed friend and brother, the Rev. Mr. King, had told him that a minister of a different class—the Premier, the Minister of State—had engaged to support the resolution, but had not yet made his appearance, and therefore requested him to take his place. They must excuse his want of preparation in discharging a duty which had thus unexpectedly devolved upon him. This was one of the noblest institutions that our community could support; and the existence of such institutions, which were altogether unknown to the ancient heathen, was the honour and the glory of our common Christianity. The calamities which this institution was intended to remedy—in so far as human remedies could effect that object—were among the greatest that could afflict our humanity, the greatest of all the evils to which flesh is heir. It was certainly a duty incumbent on any professedly Christian community to take such cases under their most earnest consideration and care. He had no doubt but that, as population increased, and the means of the community advanced, the institutions now amalgamated would form two separate establishments, as was the case in all great countries. But, in the present instance, it seemed to him that the committee had taken an exceedingly judicious course in combining the two societies. The means of the institution would be more available for the support of the two classes of beneficiaries, the cost of whose support would be proportionately diminished. He thought that the present condition of the institution was highly creditable to all concerned. It had accomplished a ... intention of the promoters that they would feel gratified to-day, as they had done on other occasions of a similar kind in observing the success with which their benevolent efforts had been attended. It was not necessary that he should detain the meeting with any remark on the importance of an institution, or rather of two such institutions of this kind. Every community was, to a certain extent, subject to the calamities which the institution was designed to alleviate; and the proportion of deaf and dumb as well as of blind was pretty much the same in all communities. We were neglecting our duty if we failed to do our utmost for the relief of those who were committed by Divine Providence to our care. He was happy to find that the charity had experienced a cordial support from the public; and as its wants were increased from time to time by the number of applicants for relief, he trusted that its means would be augmented in proportion.

Mr. M. LEVEY, J.P., said that he felt great pleasure in seconding the resolution; which was thereupon put to the meeting, and unanimously agreed to.

The Rev. G. KING moved the second resolution,—"That the thanks of this meeting be given to the Government and Parliament for the annual grant of £450 in aid of the funds of this institution." He came to listen to speeches and not to speak. He was, therefore, utterly unprepared to address the meeting; but the resolution which had been entrusted to him was fortunately one which must meet with unanimous approval. During the first year of the institution, the tentative period of its existence, it was carried on by private support, but from the period when we first called upon the public, and asked the Government to assist us, we had been cordially helped by the Government, and they deserved our warmest thanks. Every pound given by the public was, by the munificence of the Government, supplemented with an equal amount. He would call public attention to that paragraph of the report which stated that a sum of £1250 had been placed on the Estimates on condition that an equal amount was contributed by the public, for the purpose of erecting a new institution, or for the purchase of the present premises. The same amount was placed on the Estimates last year; but, notwithstanding all the energy which we had employed, we were unable to raise the necessary amount to enable us to avail ourselves of the Government grant. There was a great difference between the amount which the Government were asked to give for the purchase of premises, a thing which once done would not be repeated, and the amount which they gave towards support year by year. In the latter case he thought that it was a judicious arrangement on the part of the Government to give pound for pound to the extent of public subscriptions; but it was apparent that it was out of our power to raise the £1250 towards the purchase of the building in addition to that we now collected for yearly maintenance. He therefore trusted that it would meet with the views of his Excellency as the head of the Government—and he regretted that the other members of the Government who had been requested to attend here, had not presented themselves, in order to hear the particular state of the case,—that for this £1250 a sum of £2000, or £2500, should be substituted, irrespective of the condition of a like sum being raised by private contribution, to enable the committee either to purchase the present building or build another more suitable. The institution was nearly full already, and would in all probability soon be inadequate to meet future requirements. Surely there could not be an object more worthy of the sympathy of the Government than that which was brought under notice this afternoon. The deaf and dumb children whom we had had here for the last eight years were deprived of the greatest faculty which the Great Creator originally conferred upon man as the medium of connection between earth and heaven. Language was the medium of prayer and praise, of communicating our ideas with our fellow men, of holding communion with our Creator, of extending civilisation and commerce; and these were not all the benefits which were derived from it. The heavenly gift had been completely shut out from the deaf and dumb, and it was the province of this institution to repair as far as practicable this great defect. We wished the public to witness the progress made by the children in this institution, and to see the success which followed the teaching imparted here. If they could only see these children as they came in a state of utter ignorance and dumb stolidity, incapable of communicating ideas and almost of receiving them, and if they had marked the progress which they had made month by month and year by year, they would perhaps acknowledge that there was perhaps not another institution in the colony which was more deserving of support than this. We wanted to enlarge this building by the addition of an industrial school for the instruction of the children now growing up into life, but we could not do so until the premises became our own. Above the industrial school we desired to provide two large school rooms—one for the blind and the other for the deaf and dumb. The lease would expire in six months, and whatever, therefore, was to be done must be done speedily. Gratitude had been defined as a sense of favours to come as well as of favours already received; and in this respect he was sure that they would all cordially agree with him in supporting this resolution.

Mr. HENRY seconded the resolution, and it was put and agreed to as before.

Mr. J. G. RAPHAEL moved the third resolution,—"That the following gentlemen form the committee during the ensuing year, viz.:—President, the Rev. George King, M.A.; vice-president, Rev. Dr. Lang, M.L.A.; hon. treasurer, Mr. William Love; hon. secretary, Mr. Ellis Robinson; hon. surgeon, Mr. A. Renwick, M.D.; committee: Mr. M. Alexander, M.L.A., Mr. E. T. Bailby, Mr. John Frazer, Mr. Henry Philips, Mr. W. Rae, Mr. F. R. Robinson, Mr. Robert Hills, Mr. George F. Wise, Mr. James Williams, Mr. James Henry, Mr. James R. Fairfax, Rev. James Milne. And the following ladies constitute the Ladies' Visiting Committee during the year:—Mrs. Baillie, Mrs. George King, Mrs. W. Love, Miss Mackie, Mrs. F. R. Robinson, Mrs. Robert Hills, Mrs. Briellat, Mrs. Justice Dowling, Mrs. G. F. Wise, Mrs. Holcombe, Miss M'Carthy, Miss Gaden, and Mrs. Hay." He recollected attending a meeting of the Destitute Children's Asylum held in this place thirteen years ago, when the same feeling of despondency and a similar want of funds was complained of. Since then, however, the late Mr. Cuthill had died, and bequeathed a large sum of money to that institution; and we had appealed to the public times out of number, and had always received support. All that was necessary was for the committee to buckle on their armour, and put the claims of the society fairly before the public. There was still the same strength and sinew in the country as in days gone by; and he felt sure that if the proper means were adopted, the institution would not languish for want of public support. It was only lately that people were beginning to think of making bequests to charities in their wills, and of leaving to local institutions what formerly went to charities at home.

Mr. M. ALEXANDER, M.L.A., seconded the resolution, and it was then put and agreed to.

Two of the blind children, a boy and a girl, then read a portion of the New Testament from a book for the blind; and the facility with which they traced the raised letters on the page with their fingers, and the accuracy with which they read the passage aloud, excited the pleasure and surprise of the audience. These children had been in the institution less than six months. Some of the deaf and dumb pupils were examined in Geography, and they shewed a very creditable knowledge of this branch of study.

A vote of thanks was carried by acclamation to his Excellency for his conduct in the chair. The Earl of BELMORE appropriately acknowledged the vote; and in doing so took occasion to allude to the remarks made by the Rev. Mr. King in moving the second resolution. He reminded the meeting that it was the Parliament who voted the money, and that it was not either in the power of the Government or of himself to make grants from the public revenue. If he were a Minister he should not feel disposed to recommend Parliament to depart from that salutary rule which had hitherto been adopted of only granting aid equal in amount to that raised by public contributions. (Hear, hear.) A departure from that rule would probably bring upon the Government no end of applications for grants from all parts of the colony. (Hear, hear.)

This terminated the proceedings.

His Excellency and suite were shewn over the institution; and it is understood that the Countess of Belmore more especially examined with much interest the various arrangements for the comfort and training of the children who find a home and receive education under the roof of the institution.

HELLER.—The highly talented and popular entertainments of Mr. Heller, at the School of Arts, are to be concluded within the next fortnight. He gave a change of programme last evening, the bill containing a large number of mechanical and sleight-of-hand feats, either new or in a new form, and with a success that in every instance brought down rapturous applause from a large company. Under the head of "Wonders" came "Cash versus Cards," embracing a number of ingenious tricks in which half-crowns are made to dance in a glass tumbler, and to pass from one receptacle to another till they finally reach a narrow-necked decanter that has to be broken to regain the coins—an illustration of animal magnetism—the story of a canary—the birth of flowers—and a photograph in negative—each evincing an extraordinary dexterity, and producing effects astonishing in their completeness. In the second part he exhibited his brilliant playing on the pianoforte, taking for his subject part of Thalberg's grand fantasia on airs in "Semiramide." He also introduced a fine little instrument, named the "Orgue Melodique," upon which he played a few airs—amongst others that of "Auld Robin Gray," with a charming sweetness of tone and exquisite expressiveness. Having thus gratified his audience with specimens of the excellence that can be attained in music, he gave a ludicrous example of the kind of practice indulged in by a boarding-school Miss, to show how failure may be made certain. The finikin way in which she dawdles through the half-hour's practice, from the time she adjusts her dress on the stool till she flirts away is full of laughable by-play, piquantly characteristic, and every little manœuvre to kill the time was hit off with a drollery that kept the company with their hands to their sides, young and old, gentle and stern. The third part consisted of the second-sight feats of Haydee, whose wonderful descriptions of things unseen puzzle the uninitiated, and give rise to such extraordinary speculations as to the modus operandi that Heller would be out-Hellered could they be given practical effect. The finale was a grand scene for the juveniles—The Tale of a Tub or the singular evolution of a flock of ducks from a few eggs. A vessel capable of holding ten or twelve gallons is brought on to the stage, filled with water, and therein are dropped a couple of eggs, when, on the discharge of a pistol, the water is suddenly found to be swarming with ducklings, which clamber over the sides and swim about the stage. What adds much to the enjoyment of the ...

The monthly meeting of the committee of the Chamber of Commerce was held at the Exchange, this day, the deputy-chairman, Mr. J. S. Willis, presiding. The following members were also present:—Messrs. J. Alger, J. Keep, B. Molineaux, R. Rome, J. Powell, Alexander Campbell, and E. Chapman. A report was made by the sub-committee appointed 13th September, that they had been informed a clause has been introduced into the proposed new Act for amending the Customs laws, fixing forty-eight hours after a ship's arrival as the time within which import entries should be made by consignees of goods; and unless entered within that time, the agents or master of the vessel may pass needful entries. The subject of the seizure of goods on board ships omitted to have been reported was discussed, and the committee being of opinion that the application of the 9th section 9 Victoria No. 15, which enacts that all such goods shall be confiscated, is in its present enforcement harsh and oppressive. The Secretary was requested to draw the attention of the Honorable the Colonial Treasurer to its severity, with a hope that he would see fit to its modification in the new Customs Bill, about to be submitted to Parliament. Mr. J. M'Gregor was duly elected a member of the Chamber. Other business of ordinary routine having been disposed of, the proceedings terminated.

The aggregate receipts for last quarter were £188,126 18s., and for the nine months of this year £564,953 8s. 6d. against £185,525 18s. 8d., and £532,296 15s. 1d. for the corresponding periods of last year. Last month's receipts show a comparative decrease of £1633 7s. 11d., while on the quarter there is an increase of £2500 19s. 4d., and upon the three quarters of £31,756 13s. 5d.

The import markets opened rather quietly and without any material change on the rates ruling at close of last week. Breadstuffs were very dull, the only demand was for bakers' parcels, most of which were supplied from the mills, at £15 10s. Adelaide sorts were nominally £16 to £17. Maize opened heavily at a decline of about 1d. on all descriptions; 3s. 11d. to 4s. was the current quotation. There was hardly anything doing in teas. The cargo just received per Helpmeet is to be offered at auction during this week. Sugars were in demand; a parcel just to hand from Melbourne per steamer is the only one of any size now in the market except the Company's stock. We learn from Mauritius, under date August 27, that the Metaris had sailed for Sydney with 346 tons sugar. The Morning Star, 550 tons, was loading for this port, four others for the Southern colonies, and two for New Zealand. Prices are reported to have declined. Messrs. Ireland, Fraser, and Co.'s circular of the above date furnishes the following market intelligence:—

The manufacture of sugar is now being actively carried on throughout the island, and as the yield of the canes continues to prove satisfactory, we confirm our previous advices respecting the prospect of a large crop, which is at present variously estimated at 130,000 to 140,000 tons, or nearly double that of last season. Sugar is beginning to arrive freely from the country, and the finer descriptions are already plentiful, being produced in proportionately much larger quantity than formerly, owing to an improved process of manufacture recently adopted on a number of the estates. Our market is, however, still sparingly supplied with grey refining descriptions, which are in good demand for Europe at the following quotations:—Grey refining sugar, equal to No. 14 DS, 5 dollars 70 cents per 100 lbs. French; ditto ditto, 13 ditto, 5 dollars 60 cents to 5 dollars 70 cents ditto; ditto ditto, 12 ditto, 5 dollars 50 cents to 5 dollars 60 cents ditto; ditto ditto, 11 ditto, 5 dollars 40 cents to 5 dollars 50 cents ditto ditto; grey syrup sugar equal to Nos. 10 to 12 ditto, 4 dollars 75 cents to 5 dollars; ditto, Nos. 7 to 9 ditto, 4 dollars 25 cents to 4 dollars 75 cents ditto. Taking freight to the United Kingdom at 50s per ton, and exchange at 1½ per cent. discount we estimate the cost of a good grey refining sugar equal to No. 12 Dutch standard at 21s 3d per cwt. free on board, exclusive of insurance. White crystallised and yellow grocery sugars have materially declined in value since the beginning of the month; but there is now a fair demand both for the colonies and Bombay, and our market is firm at the following quotations:—Finest white crystals, 7 dollars to 7 dollars 75 cents per 100 lbs. French; good and middling ditto, 6 dollars 25 cents to 7 dollars; crystallised yellow, 6 dollars 25 cents to 6 dollars 50 cents ditto; finest yellow counter, 6 dollars to 6 dollars 35 cents ditto; good and middling ditto (scarce), 5 dollars 75 cents to 6 dollars ditto; finest yellow syrup, 5 dollars 75 cents to 6 dollars; good ditto 5 dollars 25 cents to 5 dollars 75 cents ditto; good brown, 4 dollars 75 cents to 5 dollars 25 cents ditto; middling ditto, 4 dollars 50 cents to 4 dollars 75 cents ditto; low ditto, 4 dollars 25 cents to 4 dollars 50 cents ditto. Taking freight to Australia at 40s per ton, and exchange at 8 per cent. discount, we estimate the cost of a good yellow counter sugar at 26s 6d per cwt., free on board, exclusive of insurance. Our exports to Australia and New Zealand during the season which closed on the 31st ultimo, aggregated 31,132 tons, against 35,178 tons during the preceding season, while of the new crop, dating from the 1st instant, the exports amount to 2256 tons, against 917 tons during the same period last year. The exports of sugar from the neighbouring Island of Reunion to Australia during the past season aggregate 3151 tons; and on the date of our last advices the Couern, to carry about 400 tons, was the only vessel loading. Exchange: Documentary bills on London being scarce, exchange has not materially altered ...

moderate scale during this month, but with the exception of bran, oats grain, and wheat, our market continues abundantly supplied with most articles of import, and we quote as follows:—Bran: an importation of 500 bags per Oberlin, from Adelaide, has been sold at from 4 dollars 50 cents to 4 dollars 70 cents per 100 lbs; and our market is quite bare of the article, but we do not expect that these prices will again be paid, although an early arrival might probably fetch 4 dollars to 4 dollars 25 cents. Duty, 4d per cwt. Coals: Cardiff and Newcastle may be quoted at 7 dollars to 10 dollars, and Australian and Scotch at 7 dollars to 8 dollars per ton according the vessel. Duty free. Quay dues 1s per ton. Flour has slightly recovered its long-continued depression, and several parcels of second quality, ex Oberlin from Adelaide, have been sold at 4 dollars 50 cents to 4 dollars 65 cents per 100 lbs. Our stock both of flour and wheat being light, prices may be expected to advance should we have moderate arrivals. Duty 6d per cwt. Wheat: Importations have continued on a very moderate scale, prices have materially recovered, and we now quote Doodah and Persian at 5 dollars 25 cents to 5 dollars 35 cents per bag of 164 lbs. English, and Australian and American 5 dollars 25 cents per 100 lbs. Duty, 6d per bag of 164 lbs.

The Melbourne Argus of Friday reports of the markets:—

A very dull day in the import markets. We notice a slightly improved feeling in breadstuffs, buyers showing a more disposition to purchase at the reduced rates of £15 to £15 10s for flour. Holders generally quote £16 to £17. No dealing in wheat to record; prices purely nominal. Very little doing in feeding grains. Five hundred bags maize sold at 4s 11d. This price may be taken as the value for parcels. The sale of 8000 bushels oats, reported as pending, has been concluded; prices withheld. Trade sales of New Zealand reported 5s 3d. Four thousand bushels malt sold; price not named. Currants are asked for. Holders ask 4d., showing a firmness on their part. Chinese oil sold (trade parcel) at 3s 10½d. Fine teas, good inquiry; common teas, neglected.

We have Adelaide papers to the 2nd. The Register of that date says:—

Wheat.—Nothing has been doing to regulate quotations. Sellers at from 6s 3d to 6s 6d, buyers from 6s to 6s 2d. Flour equally dull. Country offering at £14 10s, town at from £15 to £16. General Merchandise: The only business transacted to-day in the import market has been at auction, when the cargo of sugar ex Sarah, from Mauritius, was offered, and the whole disposed of, consisting of 3848 bags. Messrs. Solomon and Salom sold to-day, at their Mart, the cargo of the Sarah, from Mauritius, consisting of 3848 bags new crop sugar, as under:—Bright yellow counter, £33 5s per ton; light ditto ditto, £33 to £33 12s 6d; light brown £33 10s; Californian grain counter, £33 10s; choice yellow ditto, £33 10s to £34 10s; white jam crystal, £34 7s 6d to £35; bright yellow, £34 12s 6d to £34 15s; golden yellow counter, £35 7s 6d; Cossipore grain ... £35; bright yellow crystals, £35 5s; bold grain brewing ditto, £34 17s 6d to £35; white ditto, £34 10s; golden yellow ditto, £34 15s to £35 7s 6d; light ditto, £34 10s; brown ditto, £33; bright yellow counter, £33 3s 6d; medium ditto ditto, £33 3s 6d; fine light ditto, £34 19s; light brewing crystals £34 12s 6d; fine light brown, £32 15s; superior white crystals, £35 2s 6d. The same firm also sold 520 bags dressed Java rice, at £19 2s 6d per ton; 5 tons Ceylon plantation coffee, 10¾d per lb.; 1266 lbs. Java coffee, 7½d per lb.; 100 boxes congou, ex Condor, 18s 9d; 21 cwt. of sugar bags, 3½s; Barcelona nuts, 5¾d per lb.; Morton's large size scented oils, 6s 9d, and mustard, 4s 4d per dozen; Elemé raisins, 3¼d; Hibbert's stout 8s 6d; corn flour, 6½d per lb. Large attendance and brisk bidding.

NEW ZEALAND.

VIA Melbourne we have news from Wellington and Nelson to the 30th ultimo:—

ATTACK AND DEFEAT OF TE KOOTI.—Napier, Monday, September 27th, 6.30 p.m.—The Government agent here, in a despatch from Colonel M'Donnell, has received information of an engagement at Taupo, between Colonel M'Donnell's force and the rebels. Te Kooti, with a force from 250 to 300 strong, attacked Tookano, one of the positions occupied by our force, on Saturday. Severe fighting took place, which resulted in our force (which consisted of 249 natives and two or three European officers) defeating the enemy with considerable loss, estimated at thirty. Seven dead bodies fell into our hands. The enemy fled. Colonel M'Donnell says the enemy has plenty of ammunition, that he fired 2000 rounds, and there were found thirty and forty rounds of Enfield ammunition in some of the pouches taken. Seven of our force (natives) were wounded, which were all our casualties. All appear to have behaved well. The Wanganuis, under Kemp, had not yet reached M'Donnell's position, and a portion of his force at Rotoaira, including the armed constabulary, was not engaged. Rotoaira is eight miles from Tookano. No. 2 division of the constabulary had also not arrived at the time of the engagement, but was close up. A general attack was to be made on the enemy to-day, Monday.

THE HIGH TREASON TRIALS.—"Our telegrams (says the Nelson Colonist) inform us that three of the leading rebel prisoners were, on the 23rd ultimo, found guilty of treason-felony and murder, by a jury, in the Supreme Court at Wellington, and were sentenced to death on the unanimous verdict of the jury. They will, doubtless, be hung. It appears, however, that eighteen of the other prisoners, hitherto confined in the hulk at Wellington, have been liberated, because, it is said, no evidence could be found against them. If they belonged to Taurua's lot, taken with arms in their hands (and our correspondent is silent on the subject), it is a pity that they were not sent to Otago, to work on the roads, instead of being set at liberty. Any rebel, or 'suspect'—any one who has, directly or indirectly, connived at the late murders, or who has given countenance or support in any way to the murderers—ought not to be permitted again to go at large in any part of the North Island." Wellington, 23rd September.—The trial of the Maori prisoners was concluded this evening at twenty minutes past 7. The summing up occupied four hours. The jury consulted sixteen minutes, and returned a verdict of guilty, without a dissentient voice. Hetaraki and Rewi declined to speak, but Matene made a long rambling statement. Sentence of death was pronounced according to the form usual in treason cases. Eighteen prisoners from the hulk were discharged from custody this afternoon, as there was no evidence against them. They are supposed to be under the surveillance of the Maories here.—Wellington, 29th September.—Wi Tamarao, who was convicted of murder, and sentenced to death on Monday, committed suicide in the gaol to-day, in a most determined manner. He hung himself with a saddle strap which he wore as a belt. He managed to fasten it about three feet from the floor, then threw himself forward, and remained in that position till dead. His knees were absolutely touching the floor. Taurua, the chief of the West Coast prisoners, is not amongst those for trial. He has been admitted to give evidence against some of the others.

The Home Government have offered the honour of knighthood of the order of St. Michael and St. George to Mr. E. W. Stafford, late Colonial Secretary; to Colonel Haultain, late Defence Minister; and also to Colonel Whitmore, late in command of the Armed Constabulary force. The two former have declined, but Colonel Whitmore has promptly accepted it, considering it as an acknowledgment on the part of "the Queen and country" of the services he has rendered. Knighthood now is nearly as plentiful as are candidates for the office of Superintendent.

The natives have handed over to the Government the whole of the Kaimanawa country. This block includes all the land from Ruapehu to this side Kaimanawa, and from Taupo to Napier and the Puke track. This enormous extent of country includes all the reputed auriferous land south of Taupo.

The Independent says:—"The news of the intention to attack Te Kooti, and of the cession by the natives of the Kaimanawa country to the Government, is highly satisfactory. Te Kooti's position at the present time is a very desperate one. He is almost surrounded by forces numerically superior to his own. He is reported short of ammunition and supplies, and will therefore possibly be unable to make an effectual resistance. If, as we understand, the Waikato country is closed to his retreat, our own forces may be able to give a good account of him; but even if we gain only the position which he lately held at Tokano, we shall be in possession of the key of the country, and be able to cut him off completely from the Upper Wanganui and the Taupo plains. The importance of the position will be appreciated when it is understood that the occupation of Tokano will enable us to examine without danger the supposed auriferous country at Kaimanawa. And if, as we may reasonably expect, Mr. M'Lean's mission to Waikato result in such an arrangement with the King and with the Waikatos as will assure us that Te Kooti will not be allowed to take refuge in their country, we may look forward to securing the person of the arch-rebel before many weeks have passed away."

We (Independent) understand that Mr. Martin has received a letter from the Under-Secretary for the Post-office department, informing him that the Government has decided that the contract which was concluded with the P. N. Z. and A. R. M. Company for interprovincial steam mail service, and which was transferred to, and is being carried out by the Circular Saw Steam Navigation Company, shall terminate on the 31st December next.

The West Coast Times says:—"E. W. Jones, late curator of intestate estates, pleaded not guilty to indictments charging him with embezzlement. He was defended by Mr. Button, and when the case was partly proceeded with, it broke down; it being found that the defendant had a colourable claim against the Government, and that there was the probability that he had no intent to defraud."

BANKERS: The City Bank.

This Company is formed for the purpose of working the very extensive auriferous reef situated nine miles north of the township of Wellington, and three-quarters of a mile south of Mitchell's Creek, on two leased blocks of each eighty and ninety acres. The reef extends for one mile.

A well defined and strong deposit of auriferous quartz has been opened in several places, widening rapidly as it descends. There are also several smaller reefs upon the property.

The results of a series of crushings at the Mint, and by Mr. Chappell's machine, as also at the Wentworth Estate Company's Works, show that the reef will yield throughout from 13 dwts. to an oz. of standard gold to the ton of quartz. The stone also contains a large quantity of iron pyrites, the probable large yield of gold from which has not been taken into account. One of the small reefs has been found to yield 8¼ ounces of gold, and 24 ounces silver to the ton of stone.

The result of quartz crushing companies in Victoria has satisfactorily proved that success in this branch of industry depends not so much upon the excess in richness of the quartz as upon the quantity that can be raised, which in the undertaking now laid before the public is reported to be practically illimitable; and a reference to the BALLARAT STAR, of the 4th instant, will show that their most profitable companies—Port Phillip Co., South Clunes Co., and New North Clunes Co.—yield respectively 4 dwts. 7 grains, 7 dwts. 3 grains, and 18 dwts. of gold to the ton of quartz.

The shares offered to the public will be preferent to the extent of a dividend of 10 per cent. Dividends will be paid per share without reference to the amount called up, and when practicable will be paid monthly.

It is estimated that £10,000 will be amply sufficient to put the mine in a paying condition.

Monthly progress reports will be published for the information of shareholders.

The company will be registered under the Mining Act, by which the shareholders have NO LIABILITY beyond the subscribed capital.

With the view of obtaining the most reliable information before submitting this undertaking to the public, one of the provisional directors proceeded to the mine and remained there for more than a month, supervising the examination and testing of the reef. A copy of his report, together with prospectuses, forms of application, and all information, can be had on application to the company's brokers.

Shares will be allotted in the order of application, and the company will be considered as formed when two-thirds have been applied for.

Applications in the annexed form to be sent in at once to Messrs. W. T. MUSTON and CO., Share Brokers, Bell's-chambers, 175, Pitt-street, Sydney.

Report of C. W. Roberts, Esq., on the Mitchell's Creek Quartz Vein.

I beg to submit, for the information of the members of the Mitchell's Creek adventure the following report of the Macgregor quartz reef:—

This celebrated reef is situated near Mitchell's Creek, about eight miles from Wellington, New South Wales, and traverses obliquely two sections of eighty acres each or a distance equal to 5280 feet, and it is worthy of remark that from this vein, Macgregor the shepherd obtained gold from 1840 to 1850. During 1854, Sir Charles Fitz Roy granted the application for two portions of the reef to Simpson Davison, who wrote an elaborate work, entitled "The Gold Deposits of Australia." Regarding the reef in question he remarks:—"I went alone to examine the celebrated quartz reef near Wellington, where the shepherd so often mentioned had long ago gathered his gold specimens in New South Wales. The locality is situated about 200 miles westward from Sydney. Finding the vein stone on examination to be much stronger and more promising for permanent yield of gold than I had been led to suppose from previous information, and hearing that it yet remained unappropriated, I applied to the Government for a grant of lease of it. The veinstone was accordingly ceded to me by Governor-General his Excellency Sir Charles Fitz Roy."

The reef strikes about 20 degrees west of north and 20 degrees east of south as per diagram, which shows its apparent course through the sections and the relative position of the same, and at No. 1 block for about half its distance the reef dips at a gradient of about 1 in 7 to the south boundary, thereby forming a ridge along that part of its course, thence through No. 2 block the surface continues to dip at an easy incline, and slightly undulating until it reaches the "Jaw Bone" diggings, situate about a mile distant. The line of reef on No. 1 block has been opened at 13 points as per rough sketch, and from the open cutting, which is 60 feet long by about 8 feet deep, situated near the southern boundary, I had 4 tons of stone broken out at 3s 6d per ton, which I forwarded to Mudgee to be crushed at Mr. Chappell's mill by the ordinary mode of reduction. The lode at this point is over 4 feet thick of solid ore, and its section from the surface indicates a widening of the lode at the depth where the stone was excavated of 2 feet. At each of the excavations sections of the reef are exposed, thereby showing its thickness, which varies from over 4 feet to 2 feet 6 inches, and of uniform solidity, carrying its walls well defined from the surface, and underlying to the east at about an angle of 45 degrees. I may add that the sections of the lode in many of the excavations widen considerably as they descend, for several of the shafts are mined on the course of the underlie to a depth of about 20 feet, thereby to a great extent proving the existence of a strong, continuous, and well defined lode, traversing the entire length of the sections. I have been informed by Mr. Moore and others, of Wellington, that the reef had been worked during several months by Mr. Matthews, of Mitchell's Creek, but with very imperfect machinery, whilst by others crushing had been carried on by horse-power working a roller, and by a person named Sutton with an ordinary windlass; however, all parties obtained generally from 10 to 13 dwts. of gold per ton of stone. My first step in order to thoroughly test the value of the lode at as low a level as the means at my disposal would permit, besides breaking out the 4 tons of stone at the open cutting on No. 1 block was to sink a shaft on No. 2 block, distant about 1370 feet from the former, and about 25 feet east of the lode, so that it might pass through the hanging wall at a depth of not less than 25 feet. From this level I had 10 tons of stone broken out, and which I forwarded to Lucknow, the Wentworth Estate Company's works, for reduction and general treatment. The course of the reef on the ridge of block No. 1, for 12 chains, is indicated by outcropping and detached masses of quartz rock, averaging about 20 feet in width, and by measurement equal to about 3000 tons, which, by the authority of the miner Sutton, before referred to, who worked on the mine for several months, is worth from 10 to 13 dwts. of gold per ton of stone. The country as proved by the 25 feet shaft is of slate formation, the bounding rock of the lode being much decomposed.

There are three watercourses, which cross the surface of the lode within a range of six chains at a steep incline to the West, that can be made to converge for supplying the dams or reservoirs that may be required with water, and if it be considered expedient a race may be carried from Mitchell's Creek at a small cost; but I apprehend with the advantages before referred to, coupled with the raising of water from the lode, the outlay would not be required.

In conclusion, I may remark that from the information I have received from several persons who have worked the mine during several months, as to its auriferous character, together with what I saw of the extent and strength of the veinstone, I must confess that I entertain a very favourable opinion of it, and if the quartz which I forwarded to Mr. Chappell, of Mudgee—Mr. Thompson, of the Wentworth Estate Gold Mining Company, Lucknow—and the Royal Mint, of Sydney, give by crushing satisfactory results, I shall have no hesitation in recommending immediate steps being taken to mine this extensive and promising reef.

I worked out the position of the blocks, although my instruments were of a very simple description, for it was impossible, amid ridges and heavy timber, to determine their situation, or how the reef traversed them, without first running the boundary lines.

By reference to the section of No. 1 block before referred to, it will be readily seen that a drive may be carried from the base of the ridge, in a northerly direction, along the course of the lode, a distance of about thirty chains, that will in all probability open up a supply equal to about 25,000 tons of stone, which can be stoped away at a cost of a few shillings per ton. Then, having such an extent of quartz directly available and so easy of access, would justify, in my opinion, the construction and erection of the plant and machinery, previously refered to, with all possible dispatch. It may be further remarked that the heavy expense and loss of time generally incurred by companies in sinking shafts and opening up of extensive reserves of ore before erecting their machinery, will, in the case of this adventure, be avoided, for the reasons above recited.

The ten-acre block is situated about eleven chains west of No. 1 block, but I would certainly recommend that it be increased to an area of eighty acres. On this block are two open cuttings or excavations, shewing the sections of what appears to be an extensive and almost horizontal reef, about two feet thick. Several tests have been made from these irregular developments, averaging, I am informed, some 15 dwts. of gold per ton of stone. From the many indications on the surface of this section, I am of opinion that large quantities of stone may be had at a trifling cost for raising, for at the points referred to the reef is within a few inches of the surface, and, judging from comparison, many other points on this area can be opened where the reef may be found quite as near the surface.

Again, the section in question will be available as a machinery area, also as a site for the erection of miners' and labourers' cottages, and particularly as paddocks for horses, besides preventing the too close proximity of any township that may ultimately spring into existence near the mine. The soil is well adapted for cultivation, and there is abundance of timber for firewood, and generally for ordinary mining requirements, in the immediate neighbourhood of the mine.

In order to attain success in the working of the mine it will be in the first place absolutely necessary to have a thoroughly competent mining officer at the head of that department of the company's operations, therefore I recommend that he be a person who has worked and acquired his experience at the Clunes or other well-known quartz mining districts of Victoria, that he understand the development of the mine both as regards matters of detail and tact in the letting of contracts, but above all capable of governing the miners and others within the compass of his department. In the second place, that no machinery be purchased because it may be offered at a cheap rate, but that the latest improvements and most effective description be adopted; that the engine be of power to work a battery of 30 head of stampers, which will reduce about 500 tons of quartz weekly, but to commence with ten head until the mine be so far developed, by the opening up of further reserves of ore, as will warrant the addition to them of the second series of ten head of stampers, and so on until the full complement are in active operation. Then with the reef of the character and promise of the one under consideration, we may hope to approximate to the celebrated New North Clunes mine of Victoria, which reduces and otherwise treats about 500 tons of quartz weekly, and has been paying monthly dividends equal to £2 per 2056th share, with occasional ones of £3 since it entered the dividend-paying list, a period of twelve months, besides accumulating a reserve fund of £12,500 towards an increased supply of water.

Wellington being but seven miles from the mine is a matter of some importance, for if it should so happen that a sufficient number of shares be applied for by residents in and about that township and district, perhaps it would be to the interest of the contemplated company if a local Board of Directors were constituted from among them, for the purpose of supervising the works at the mine, and by acting in conjunction with the Head office at Sydney.

PROSPECTUS of the ENTERPRISE QUARTZ MINING COMPANY, (Limited,) TRUNKEY CREEK.

Capital, £30,000 in 30,000 shares of £1 each, 20,000 of which are non-contributing shares, and are reserved for the Proprietors, and the remaining 10,000 shares are now offered to the public.

DIRECTORS:
The Hon. Sir James Martin, Q.C.
W. R. Piddington, Esq., M.L.A.
Henry Prince, Esq., J.P.
Edward Flood, Esq., J.P.
Archibald Thompson, Esq., J.P.
BANKERS: The Bank of New South Wales.
SOLICITORS: Messrs. Allen, Bowden, and Allen.
BROKER: Josiah Mullens, Esq., 131, Pitt-street.

The original proprietors of the reefs in respect of which this company is proposed to be formed are nine miners, known as "Green and Co.'s party," and the land acquired by them consists of fifteen acres at Trunkey Creek, secured under the "Gold Fields Act." These men, not having sufficient capital to work the claims, have agreed to assign their interest in the same to the present company in order that the reefs may be at once opened up, and worked on a large scale.

These reefs are in the very centre of the rich claims on Trunkey Creek, and adjoin "Chard's," "Eddington's," and "Crummie's" claims. One block of the land adjoins Arthur's and Chard's claim, where 167 ounces of gold were taken from 12 cwt. of picked stone; and 22 ounces from a ton of average stone from that claim is recently reported to have been the result of a trial crushing. About 242 yards of this rich reef runs through the ground belonging to the present proprietors. A good water claim has been secured for this company.

This company is proposed to be formed for the purpose of working the reefs on these 15 acres, which are leased for 15 years.

The Directors, in putting the present prospectus before the public, have a well-grounded expectation that the company will prove a success. Messrs. Piddington and Flood have just returned from a visit to the reefs, and from a personal examination of them have satisfied themselves that they are justified in recommending this enterprise to the public.

Skilful men will be employed on the works and a vigilant supervision will be exercised over the general management.

It is believed that not more than 5s per share will be required to put the company in full working order, and the directors are guided in this belief by the fact of a company in the same locality only making a similar call to start their works, with a 20-horse power engine and 10 stampers.

For several months past the nine original proprietors have been raising stone, and opening up three reefs on this ground, and more than fifty tons are now ready for crushing.

The stone presents visible gold, and specimens from the reefs may now be seen at the office of Josiah Mullens, Esq.

"Royal Mint, Sydney, "26th August, 1869.

SUPERIOR CATTLE PROPERTY.

Comprising 452 square miles, or thereabouts, with 5000 HEAD OF CATTLE.

The undersigned is instructed by the Executors of the late J. D. M'Lean, Esq. to invite Tenders for the purchase of the MIRRAPAROO STATION (known as Sharp's), on the WARREGO RIVER, with 5000 head (more or less) of superior well-bred cattle.

The country is chiefly fine open undulating downs, of FIRST-CLASS FATTENING DESCRIPTION, well grassed and watered, its carrying capabilities are very great, and, as an evidence of the excellent quality of the country, it may be observed that during the severe drought of last year, the cattle ALL REMAINED ON THE RUN, and a fine draft of fat cattle were sent to market.

The situation of the Station is particularly advantageous, as it is equi-distant from the Sydney, Melbourne, and Adelaide markets, in all of which the herd is well known.

Persons tendering for the purchase of this valuable property will make their offer either in one sum for the property as it stands, or at per head for the cattle to be mustered—all under six months at the time of delivery being given in,—also the terms of payment which the Tenderer may offer.

Sealed tenders to be addressed, "Tender for the Mirraparoo Station," will be received up to the 10th day of October next.

HENRY BEIT, 5, Wynyard-street, Sydney.
